BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(Special.)—Having designated by lot the order of liability to military service, the government will enter tomorrow upon the process of determining on merit who shall be sent to the battle line and who shall remain at home to help feed and maintain the nation's armies.

The local exemption boards now come into action. To them will be mailed tomorrow night the official lists of the numbers drawn in the draft lottery. Beginning at the top of the list the board in each exemption district will summon by lot as many registrants as the aggregate of the quota assigned to it by the state authorities.

EXEMPTIONS OPEN BOOK.

In some districts, it is expected, the board will be examining registrants and determining exemption claims within the next fortnight. After being summoned for the army the registrant will have several weeks in which to settle his business affairs before going to the training camp.

MUST FILE CLAIMS EARLY.

If listed among those needed for the first contingent, he will receive a notice to file. If he has moved from the address given on registration day, he should notify the local board having jurisdiction over him or arrange for immediate forwarding of any mail sent to his former address. Within seven days after the date this notice is sent, he may file a claim for exemption or discharge. If he then has ten days more in which to file the affidavit proving his claim. The man called must appear for physical examination on the date specified in the call. Otherwise he violates the selective service act and makes himself subject to the same penalty he would have incurred had he failed to register at all.

WILL MAY FILE APPEAL.

The registrant who has only an industrial or agricultural exemption claim to make and who supports his claim before the local board, may wait until he has received notice that his claim has been denied to the district board. Within five days after this notice is received he must file his industrial or agricultural claim with the district board in which it has been certified. If he has five additional days in which to file his affidavit supporting the claim.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT THE GREATER PERCENTAGE OF APPEALS WILL COME FROM THE FIRST GROUP.

The census figures for registration estimated that 46 per cent of the men between the ages of 21 and 31 were married. The law exempts all men who are married, but it is expected that the greater percentage of appeals will come from the first group, those who are not married. The law exempts all men who are married, but it is expected that the greater percentage of appeals will come from the first group, those who are not married.

WILL JOIN THE REGULARS.

Those selected for service under the first call will be permitted to enlist in the regular army or national guard at any time prior to their call for examination before exemption boards. Provost Marshal Crowder announced tonight that this will not be allowed, however, to join the reserve corps.

THE FIRST CALL WILL BE FOR THE REGULAR ARMY.

The first call will be for the regular army. The government will not be able to obtain the men needed for the national guard. The government will not be able to obtain the men needed for the national guard.

X-RAY TO CLEAR DEATH OF KING 200 YEARS AGO

Body of Charles XII., Hero of Sweden, Exhumed.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT
(SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.)
(Copyright, 1917, by The Tribune Company.)

STOCKHOLM, July 21.—[Delayed.]—The body of a marvelous youth, called by his adoring people "the young lion of the north" and by his frightened enemies "the madman of the north," was viewed by a great concourse of Swedish princes, nobles, officers of army and navy, state officials, and some foreign guests at noon here today in the Gustavus Adolphus mausoleum of the Riddarholm church in Stockholm.

This ceremony, which for strangeness and solemnity was without precedent since the exhumation of the body of Napoleon at St. Helena, was the closing act in proceedings begun last Wednesday with the purpose of clearing up the mystery which for two centuries has existed in many minds relative to the death of Charles XII. of Sweden.

Whether the king was killed by a falconer's ball or canister, shot from a Norwegian cannon, posted opposite the trench before Fredriksten fortress, in which the king was half lying, half standing, or whether he was shot by a traitor in his own camp are questions which never have been settled to the satisfaction of all historians.

Career Was Amazing.

The amazing career of Charles XII., his remarkable genius, his brilliant victories, some of them gained at an age when most youths are thinking about what professions they will enter, his unconquerable spirit, and his magnificent and heroic death, have combined to make him a figure of glory and terror. His career is a study in itself, and his death a mystery which has puzzled historians for two centuries.

At the instigation of the Karolinska society, a Swedish patriotic organization, royal permission was granted months ago for the exhumation of the body of Charles XII.

Examination of the body, the exact measurements were made at Fredriksten fortress in Norway to ascertain the distance between the Norwegian positions in the night fighting of Dec. 11, 1718, and the trench which Charles XII. occupied when he fell.

By a "Doubtful Hand."

It was agreed that a ball fired by the Norwegians would have produced a different skull wound than one fired by anybody in the Swedish entrenchments, and it was believed by scientific men that Roentgen photographs, exact measurements, and modern methods of

BULLETIN.

COPENHAGEN, July 22.—A Berlin dispatch says Emperor Wilhelm has departed for the eastern front.

PETROGRAD, July 22.—The provisional government has issued a proclamation to the nation setting forth the seriousness of the situation, declaring that its first duty is to apply its whole strength against the foreign foe and in defense of the administration against anarchy and counter-revolutionary attempts, and outlining important reforms throughout the country.

The proclamation says it was due to the fact that certain regiments, filled with misguided advice, failed to fight, that the Russian line east of Lemberg has been broken by the Germans, putting the whole army in danger. It appeals to the people to stand firm.

The proclamation states that in accordance with the declaration of May 18 the government intends to summon the entire nation to a conference in August to decide upon a general policy of action in the future, and to discuss the steps already taken to achieve the principles proclaimed by the Russian revolution.

REFORMS TO COME SOON.

At this conference Russia will be represented, in addition to diplomats, by representatives of the Russian democracy.

"The government," continues the proclamation, "considers it indispensable to proceed with a series of measures putting the principles announced on May 18 into operation and achieving the steps already taken to achieve a constituent assembly on Sept. 30."

The proclamation also states that the government will be prepared to discuss the theory of trade union, labor changes, and arbitration courts. Other bills are being drafted dealing with the eight-hour day, the protection of labor, and the introduction of insurance for workmen.

OFFERS LAND REFORM.

The proclamation announces that an economic council of the general economy committee will be held immediately and draft plans for a general economic reorganization and the organization of labor. It will also prepare a bill covering these aims and for establishing control of industry.

Bills also will be prepared regarding the theory of trade union, labor changes, and arbitration courts. Other bills are being drafted dealing with the eight-hour day, the protection of labor, and the introduction of insurance for workmen.

READY TO FIGHT REVOLT.

In a telegram to Premier Kerensky and the Petrograd council of workmen and soldiers' delegates, the general staff of the army on the Romanian front takes the position that the disorders in Petrograd are acts of treason to the revolution and a breach of faith toward the revolutionary army.

Replying on the support of the democracy of Russia, the staff demands that the provisional government and the council of workmen and soldiers' delegates take the most stringent measures, including the employment of armed force, against the rebels. The telegram adds:

"We declare we are ready to support both the government and the council in every way and to employ armed force if necessary."

REVOLTERS GIVE UP.

The first machine gun regiment, which had revolted yesterday, surrendered its guns and rifles in the Winter palace square.

APPEAL TO RUSSIA

Proclamation Issued to People Urging Them to Oppose Paris, Internal and External.

PETROGRAD, July 22.—Following is the text of the proclamation issued by the provisional government calling on the people of Russia to oppose the dangers which threaten the nation from within and from without:

"Citizens! The fateful hour has struck. The German emperor's armies have broken the front of the national revolutionary army. This terrible operation has been facilitated by the criminal levity and blind fanaticism of some and the treachery of others."

"At this fateful moment when, taking advantage of the general confusion, the hidden forces of counter-revolution can raise their heads, the remodeled provisional government clearly realizes its heavy responsibilities. It possesses, however, full and firm confidence in the strength of the great Russian people and in the rapid recuperation of the life of the nation."

"The government firmly believes that the crisis will lead to recovery, not death. Strong in that belief, the government is ready to act with the energy and resolution the exceptional circumstances demand."

"The government regards as its first and capital task the application of its whole strength to the struggle against the foreign foe and to the defense of the new governmental regime against every anarchy and counter-revolutionary attempt, without hesitating to take the most rigorous measures in its power."

"At the same time, the government will endeavor to achieve the steps already taken to achieve the principles proclaimed by the Russian revolution."

YACHT PICKS UP MAN ADRIFF 36 HOURS IN SKIFF

Blown Out of Sight of Land by Storm on Lake Michigan.

The yacht Vampire, W. L. Trammell,

4428 Clifton avenue, owner and master, was heading up through choppy seas on its voyage from St. Joseph to Chicago.

"Sail, ho!" sang out the lookout in the bows.

The captain tightened his sheets a bit and, hauled a course which soon laid him alongside the derelict. The man in the boat sat on a thwart motionless as if in a daze, holding aloft an oar from which fluttered his coat.

After careful maneuvering in the heavy weather a towline was thrown to him. He made it fast about his waist and was pulled hand over hand aboard the yacht through the breaking seas.

Collapses on Deck.
He collapsed limply on the deck. His face and bare arms were raw from the sun. The palms of his hands were a mass of blood blisters. A glass of fresh brought him round.

"I'm John Wichman of Chesterton, Ind.," he said. "I left my wife on the beach at home Friday afternoon and started out in a half-bottomed skiff for a row. I was half a mile off shore when a sudden squall blew up out of the southwest."

"The wind whipped up terrific seas. They seemed to lift me against the sky, then leaped from under me and let my old flat-bottomed boat smack down into the troughs between them. I expected to be shipwrecked every minute."

"Night came on. Still the wind blew. When morning came I was out of sight of land. The heavy seas broke over me, filling my boat to the gunwales. I halted her out with a tomato can."

"Without a bit to eat I kept pulling at the oars until I was too weak to pull any longer. I pulled for what I thought the shore ought to be, but without compass or landmark to guide me I must have been rowing toward the center of the lake. After a day of blistering sun the night came on."

Saw Steamer Pass.

"I saw a steamer ablaze with lights from stem to stern, pass within half a mile. I yelled at her. I waved my coat frantically. She sailed right on. I kept my eyes fixed on her lights as she passed hull down over the horizon."

Capt. Trammell, taking his reckoning, figured that Wichman was rescued twenty-five miles from land and forty miles north of Gary. When located in Chicago Wichman took a train for his Indiana home.

TWENTY PLANES ARE DRIVEN OFF; COAST BOMBED

Eleven Killed and 26
Wounded in Towns
on Ocean.

LONDON, July 22.—Another day-light raid, carried out over the east coast of England this morning, resulted in the capture of about twenty German "airships" after they had dropped a number of bombs over Walsby and Harwich, killing eleven persons and injuring twenty-six.

An alarm was sounded in London, but before the Germans could reach any point near the city they were attacked heavily by defending squadrons of aircraft, which speedily caused them to change their minds and beat a hasty retreat.

OFFICIAL REPORT ISSUED.

The following official account of the raid was issued:

"A squadron of enemy airplanes from fifteen to twenty-one approached Felixstowe and Harwich at 8 o'clock this morning. Some bombs were dropped, but the heavy air from the anti-aircraft defense caused the enemy's formation to wobble up, part turning overboard and part dropping down the coast."

"The latter party was heavily engaged by gunfire all down the coast. Some bombs were dropped, but the heavy air from the anti-aircraft defense caused the enemy's formation to wobble up, part turning overboard and part dropping down the coast."

"A patrol of the Royal Flying corps encountered some hostile machines returning to Belgium and brought down one at sea near the coast."

APPEARANCE OF RAIDERS.

The morning broke bright and sunny, but a thick haze soon appeared. At about 8 o'clock the enemy machines were heard and were seen flying high and fast toward the coast. They received a hot reception from the improved defenses in the shape of anti-aircraft gunfire and were hardly well over the coast before their formation was broken up. They dropped bombs hastily before retreating.

Observers say that the gunfire which followed the section which went down the Essex coast reached a pitch of unusual intensity. It was the movements of this squad which caused the firing for the first time of new warning signals in London.

FOURTH BY BRITISH AIRMEN.

British planes pursued the Germans well out to sea, fighting vigorously all the time, but handicapped by the low visibility. Reports of heavy firing received from various quarters indicate that the authorities have made considerable improvement in the defense since the last raid over London.

WARNING TO COAST TOWNS.

A correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company telephoned from the Isle of Thanet that warning signals sounded in a number of coast towns and that firing was heard soon afterwards. A number of airplanes which were already in the air proceeded in the direction of the firing, followed by fighting planes. Soon the signal that the raiders had been driven off was given.

Some Alarm in London.

Some excitement was caused in London by the sounding of the raid warning in this morning's newspapers. Persons unaware of the intentions of the authorities were convinced when the firing of signals began that German raiders had again penetrated London's defenses and were showering bombs on the city.

At 8:30 o'clock "siren" bells were sent up from every fire station in the county, transforming the usual Sunday morning quiet into a din which London now associates with an air raid.

The signal consisted of a quarter of three at intervals of a quarter of a minute.

uta. There were distinct reports as the bombs fell the small markers and 1901 ones were employed in the air.

Push for Tube Stations.

Persons who believed anti-aircraft guns were in action made a rush for cover, being urged to do so by police who appeared in the streets with placards warning the public to seek shelter. The tube stations were favorite places of refuge. Some persons who had been disturbed brought pots of coffee with them and finished their meal on platforms. Early morning services in the city churches proceeded without interruption.

About an hour after the first warning the police again appeared on the streets with placards announcing that all was clear.

There is little doubt an attempt was made to reach London. In giving notice that warning signals would be fired the authorities announced that such warnings would not be given until it appeared from information received from military sources that an attack on London was intended.

One Machine Driven Far.

A correspondent in Essex of the Exchange Telegraph company reports that a biplane was driven an aerial battle lasted about an hour. A squadron of seven German aircraft, traveling in a westerly direction, encountered a number of British planes, which compelled them to turn northward. They went in this direction about half a mile and then returned to the east.

One German machine was cut off from the main body and surrounded by three British airplanes, which drove it in the opposite direction until all four were lost in the haze.

The pursuit of the others continued, all machines climbing to a great height, as the four British planes, which remained at an altitude of 15,000 to 16,000 feet and were soon lost to sight.

French Socialists Meet

Delay in Peace Meeting

(ST. LOUIS TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.)

STOCKHOLM, July 21.—(Delayed)—In response to a request of the French Socialists, the joint committee which is arranging the Stockholm peace conference announced a postponement of the meeting until Sept. 1, today. In spite of Russia's known objections to any delay, it is considered here that further postponement is necessary on account of the Swedish general elections.

German Socialists Indorse Conference.

COPENHAGEN, July 21.—The Berlin Vorwarts prints a communication from the German Socialists and Socialist Trades union to the Russian council of deputies, accepting the conditions for an international Socialist conference as formulated by the Russian and Scandinavian delegates at Stockholm, July 6.

The communication indorses the view that governments which do not state their peace program clearly and without ambiguity must be fought vigorously by the Socialists, but a saving clause is inserted in the communication, perhaps in consideration of the uncertainty regarding the declaration of Dr. Michaelis, the Imperial German ambassador, that the opposition shall begin after the Stockholm conference.

NOW SIAM SHAKES FIST AT KAISER "FOR HUMANITY"

LONDON, July 21.—Siam has declared that it is at war with Germany, according to a dispatch from Bangkok. Siam's population, aggregating 10,000,000, has been armed.

The object of Siam's declaration is to uphold the sanctity of international rights against nations showing contempt for the principles of humanity and respect for small states.

All Germans and Austrians, the dispatch adds, have been placed under arrest and their businesses closed.

Siam, "the Land of the Free," a kingdom of southern Siam, has a population variously estimated at between 6,000,000 and 10,000,000; it is probably something more than 8,000,000. Universal liability to military service on the European model now is in force in all the provinces of Siam, including Bangkok.

The peace strength of the army is about 15,000 men, while the navy consists nominally of twenty-one vessels, all of small size. In peace there are 6,000 men available for service, and beside a reserve of 30,000.

In the nineteenth century regular diplomatic relations were established with the United States and the European nations.

DANIELS SEEKS $7,500,000 FOR MUNITION NEEDS

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(Special.)—Secretary Daniels will ask congress for an appropriation of $7,500,000 to equip the Washington navy yard so that it can increase its capacity for turning out guns, mines, torpedoes and other ordnance which the enlarged fleet requires.

In making the request Secretary Daniels will inform congress that it is impossible to get the necessary munitions from private concerns fast enough to meet the navy's needs.

"With the accomplishment of the armament contemplated," Mr. Daniels says, "ample manufacturing facilities will be provided for the manufacture of from 200 to 300 torpedoes per month, at least 5,000 mines a month, a large increase in the manufacture of guns, mines, and other ordnance accessories, and the manufacture and repair of the larger part of the optical work for the entire naval establishment."

Army Stops Clothing Allowance to Soldiers

Washington, D. C., July 21.—Clothing is to be issued hereafter to the American soldier only in accordance with his individual needs, the war department has decided to abandon the old system of issuing regular allowances, which afforded soldiers an opportunity to effect individual savings.

Meatless Days Urged by Canada's Food Controller

Toronto, Ont., July 21.—F. H. Hanna, food controller, issued a statement today in which he suggested that meat be served in hotels or restaurants on Wednesdays or Fridays, and that no bacon be served on other days except at breakfast.

AIR FLEET TO BLIND ENEMY'S NEXT BIG TASK

Passage of Bill Causes Speeding Up of War Plans.

(ST. LOUIS TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.)

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(Special.)—Now that congress has appropriated the $400,000,000 recommended by the administration for the construction of a great fleet of airplanes with which to put out the eyes of the enemy, and the tankers which the war, the aircraft production board is prepared to begin at once the comprehensive building program which has been worked out.

Howard H. Coffey made no statement tonight regarding the plans of the board, of which he is chairman, beyond expressing his delight that congress has agreed to the appropriation and unanimously providing the big fund required to place the United States in the forefront in the air.

Lt. Col. Gen. George O. Squier, chief signal officer and many high officials of the administration, Mr. Coffey has long been convinced that the war will be won in the air, and that Germany will have little chance to do effective fighting on the ground when the United States and the allies have absolute supremacy aloft.

While there is a discussion of building huge battleplanes capable of transporting in the air from ten to twenty men, and mounting one inch to three inch guns, the secretaries of the nation will be devoted primarily to turning out large numbers of training, scout, and fighting machines of about the same size and capacity as those now in use by the British and French flying corps.

Auto Plants Mobilized.

The secret of success is believed to lie in the mobilization of fast machines and an adequate force of trained flyers to operate them.

While existing airplane plants are working to full capacity and extensive new facilities, entirely new factories are being developed to turn out planes and parts. The automobile industry is being mobilized to manufacture the new type American motors which will be standardized down to the last rivet. The immediate program of the United States calls for upwards of 30,000 airplanes, thousands of which are to be available for service in the spring of next year.

This means that the automobile and other metal industries which can turn out motors and parts must provide a much larger number of motors, since extra motors must be provided for every machine and there must be on hand at all times an adequate number of extra parts.

Conferees have been in progress here since Thursday afternoon between members of the aircraft board and representatives of the automobile industry, the British, French, and Italian flying corps, and American aircraft manufacturers.

Motor Supply Arranged For.

The conference was called for the purpose of working out a definite plan of specifications for airplane motors, which is an essential in airplane construction, whereby the manufacturing plants in this and allied countries may be assured of an ample supply at all times.

While the several industries which must contribute to the success of the building program are being coordinated, the war department will push the work of construction on the twenty-four airplane plants which are being built, and the army of fliers required to operate our air fleet in France and on other allied fronts.

To date contracts have been awarded for the construction of twenty-four camps. Four of these either are completed, or nearly so. The sites of most of those to be constructed have not yet been formally announced by the war department.

Ultimately young Americans will be training in these camps by the thousands. Most of the camps will be of the two quad type. A few will be four quadrons, or double camps.

PERSHING'S MEN PLAY BALL GAME; SCORE CENSORED?

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, July 21.—The first real baseball game which the camp has had since its establishment took place this afternoon, thanks largely to the efforts of the Young Men's Christian association, which has organized a regular company league of six teams and plans to extend its work considerably as soon as the equipment arrives.

The first troops had hardly reached here when the representatives of the Y. M. C. A. were on hand and their "hut" was one of the first buildings in operation.

Notwithstanding the meager material which it has to work with, the organization has already established a small circulating library, which is in tremendous demand, and is supplying the men with most of the paper on which they are writing home.

"It has been able to open a small canteen, with English tobacco, in lieu of American cigarettes which have not yet arrived in sufficient abundance.

FOUR MINUTE MEN TO TELL WHY WE FIGHT GERMANY

The "Four Minute Men," so called because they deliver four minute speeches in motion picture theaters over the country, in his of the administration, will talk this week in Chicago on "The Reasons Why the United States is at War with Germany."

The reasons have been compiled in capsule form by Franklin E. Lane, secretary of the interior, as follows:

Because Lieke, Louvain, and Cardinal Mercier stand for Bunker Hill, Lexington, and Paul Revere.

Because a million sons of France have died to save the land of Lafayette.

Because of England, from whom we get our civilization, and her colonies that have fallen victim through us.

Because Germany tried first to terrorize us and then to plot against us and to kill us.

Four Hundred R. O. T. C. Men Take Tests Today for Regular Army Commissions

(ST. LOUIS TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.)

PORT HENRI, N. Y., July 21.—Tomorrow will be a "red letter day" in the history of this camp. Some 400 candidates for commissions, all of whom have shown throughout eleven weeks of training that they have in them "the stuff" that goes to make officers for the United States army, will present themselves in the morning for medical examinations for provisional second Lieutenants in the regular army.

Announcement of the candidates selected to take the examinations, out of a field of about 1,500 applicants, was made by Maj. Wallace Scobie tonight. He said that those who pass the medical tests—expected to be a big majority—will do so—will go before an examining board for inquiry as to their general qualifications for commissions. It is believed that these examinations will be completed within a few days.

Security of "Second."

All of West Point's graduating class this year received commissions as first Lieutenants. Therefore a security of second Lieutenants in the regular army soon becomes apparent. The men who are successful in the examinations are of all these places and will be in the vanguard of the great American army which is to follow Gen. Pershing's contingent to France.

"Lucky dogs!" was the comment heard through the camp when the list was given out.

The names of the sons of many Chicago families of prominence appear in the list.

Among them are William F. (Fred) McLaughlin, Edward H. (Bud) McLaughlin, A. Spaulding, Raymond J. Hurley, Christopher C. Strawn, Chester M. McLaughlin, Wallace Van Cleave, S. A. McHill, Jerome F. Bowers Jr., Donald F. Vail, and Elgin D. Adair.

Candidates from Illinois.

The candidates from the Illinois regiment are: Morris G. Wood, Francis J. Brownell, Albert B. Carr, William O. Nelson, Hugh G. Courtwright, Carl W. Lorenz.

Approve Second Camp.

Many expressions of gratification over the action of the government in designating Fort Sheridan as a location for a second officers' training camp were voiced here today.

Col. Nicholson declared the proximity of Chicago had been a noticeable factor in bringing about the desire of this camp in officer making attained in this camp, and expressed praise for Chicagoans in backing the work carried on here.

"Now soon as you get ready for the second camp," he was asked.

"Just as soon as the men for it are sent here," he replied. "In fact, every time in such working order that I could march the men of the first camp out by one road while the men of the second camp were marching in by another. The first thing I will do tomorrow will be to make out requisition for supplies, so that the men of the second camp will have plenty of clothing and other equipment on their arrival at the camp."

"I do not know whether the same instructors will be retained for the second camp, but if I have the ordering of it, that will most assuredly be the case."

Companies May Be Smaller.

It is possible, according to advisers received from Washington, that the men of the second camp will be divided into smaller companies—about sixty-five or seventy-five to a company—in order to facilitate instruction. A number of military authorities look with favor on this plan.

A remarkable record has been made regarding the health of the men of the first camp. The records show that there has been only about 1 of 100 of sickness at Fort Sheridan since the camp started.

An announcement of interest to all national guard regiments of the state was made this afternoon. It was that Maj. James M. Phelan of the United States army medical corps, according to a letter received from Springfield on Tuesday.

an attack of mutinies on his men, who were securing guns to the Tauride palace, said that the Cossacks stopped and dispersed several parties, but that subsequently fire was suddenly opened on them by machine guns of the first machine gun regiment. Simultaneously the mutineers fired from barges in the river and from windows and roofs of adjoining houses. As the advanced guard was galloping across the bridge, fire was poured in on them from their right flank.

The order to retire was given. Many pulled up their horses sharply and fell on the slippery street. The commander ordered his men to scatter, but they were exposed to a hot fire. Mutineers began to bayonet fallen Cossacks.

A young officer, who headed a group to rescue the Cossacks, was badly wounded in the arm and shoulder. He ordered the men to mount and charge the mutineers, who were gradually closing on them. Part of the Cossacks broke through unhurt.

Why Lovt Quit Post.

Prince Lovt resigned as premier because he was unable to agree with the decision of the provisional government to realize immediately the entire program of the Socialist party. He was opposed to an immediate proclamation of a republic on the ground that it would be usurpation of the supreme rights of the constituent assembly.

He also entirely disapproved of the constitution of the government's hand proposals, which he considered would prove ruinous to the country and an infringement of the rights of the constituent assembly.

Other points on which Prince Lovt was in disagreement with the leaders concerned the dissolution of the duma and the council of the empire. Moreover he declared that he was unable to concur in the ruling of the cabinet that the policy of the entire government must be decided by the decision of the All-Russian congress of workmen and soldiers' delegates.

Says Defeat Was Great.

COPENHAGEN, July 21.—Dispatches received here from Germany, ask to convey the impression that the Russian defeat at Elzhof, Galicia, is developing to even wider proportions. Special dispatches to newspapers from German headquarters say the Russian front divisions are in a hot fire. It is officially reported that the Russian Seventh army south of the Elzhof, gap, affected by pressure on its flank, is also beginning to retreat. The Russians have destroyed the Berlin bridge.

Some elements of the Russian rear guard are described as fighting valiantly to delay the pursuit, but it is stated that the German vanguards are pressing on impetuously, ruthlessly, hurling themselves on one defensive point after another. The Germans are using an airplane squadron to throw wagon trains into confusion.

Little is being heard, even in the Austrian reports, of the Austro-Hungarian infantry. The proclamation of the Russian revolution, by which the Russian army, with the assistance of all available Austro-German artillery.

Leninga a German Agent.

STOCKHOLM, July 21.—The statement of Gen. Brusiloff that Nikolai Lenin, the Russian Radical Socialist, is an agent of the German general staff has thrown light on rumors which have been going on here that several men who are known in Stockholm to be in the German service also have close relations with the local representatives of the Bolsheviks, or Radical Russian Socialists, here through their with Leninga.

In at least one instance a man who acted as a courier for Leninga talked with which he was intrusted.

The Bolshevik committee here has decided all charges of this nature. The denial is signed by Joseph Furstenberg, who also uses the name Ganetsky; by Vorovsky, also known as Orlovsky, and Radek, sometimes called Bobolov. These men deny that they have sent money for any purpose to Leninga or to the Bolshevik committee in Petrograd.

Recent Radical Plot.

More than 700 Russian emigrants who have returned from America were met on the train during the journey to Haparanda by agents of the Bolsheviks, the Radical Russian Socialists, and through their with Leninga.

The travelers were angered by the arguments of these agents and their indignation increased when they were joined across the border by other adherents of Nikolai Lenin, the Russian Radical leader.

Soldiers took part in a fight which developed and a detachment of Cossacks was called out to restore peace. Several of the Bolsheviks were severely injured.

Korensky Goes to Front.

LONDON, July 21.—Premier Kerenky again has started for the front at the instance of the central committee of soldiers' and workmen's delegates, according to a Renter dispatch from Petrograd.

Dispatches from Galicia state that the breach in the Russian line is eight miles wide and ten miles deep.

The Bourne Gazette says that a meeting of delegates from regiments at the front it was resolved that it had become imperative to turn over all authority to M. Kerenky.

Premier Kerenky, as minister of war, personally led the Russian defense against the German advance on July 1 and swept everything before it until some of the regiments became mutinous and refused to obey orders.

The crisis in the Russian cabinet, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph, arose through the Socialist ministers presenting a practical ultimatum, demanding the immediate proclamation of a republic, the abolition of all class distinctions, badges and medals, the promulgation of foreign law, the transformation of the constitution of the whole financial and economic system, firm measures against counter revolution, and the dismissal of all unfaithful generals.

FOUR MINUTE MEN TO TELL WHY WE FIGHT GERMANY

The "Four Minute Men," so called because they deliver four minute speeches in motion picture theaters over the country, in his of the administration, will talk this week in Chicago on "The Reasons Why the United States is at War with Germany."

The reasons have been compiled in capsule form by Franklin E. Lane, secretary of the interior, as follows:

Because Lieke, Louvain, and Cardinal Mercier stand for Bunker Hill, Lexington, and Paul Revere.

Because a million sons of France have died to save the land of Lafayette.

Because of England, from whom we get our civilization, and her colonies that have fallen victim through us.

Because Germany tried first to terrorize us and then to plot against us and to kill us.

These "combinations" come in black or tan color—high or low—low instep.

The "combination" last is two inches wider at the ball of shoe than at the "hugging" heel—such comfort!

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(Special.)—Responses to the appeal for householders to help the food supply by raising their own foodstuffs as far as possible have been particularly encouraging from middle western states, the national emergency food garden commission announced today.

An increase in the number of food gardens in the middle western states of 250 per cent, the greatest in the country, is shown according to the latest reports. The increase for the whole United States is 222 per cent. This gain represents a total of 1,175,000 acres, according to the best figures obtainable.

The commission estimates that the value of food to be raised in home gardens this year will approximate $350,000,000.

anxiety which when the foreboding was sailed would have brought rejoicing that would have exceeded anything I can

The statement which I gave to the

had been waiting and hoping for the rejoicing telegram. It began with these words:

"It is with the joy of a great relief of every fighting man and every fighting ship. And then followed the account of the dangers which had been confronted."

very words of the Glaves telegram, for it is the immemorial policy of the department in time of war not to employ the language of a message coming in code. Otherwise it would be easy for the enemy to learn the cipher."

"Moreover, the message of the rear admiral contained the names of the ships, which for military reasons, are never given out during a war. The language used, as reference to the casualties, will show, therefore, was not the military language of the cablegram, but contained the material facts of the safe arrival of the transports and con-attacks, and the successful conclusion of that part of the enterprise."

"The important part of the statement, given to the public, was that all men, soldiers and marines and ships had been conveyed to France in safety.
Two of the groups arrived without being attacked, and the two were successfully the criticism would not have been

DANIELS' NEW U-BOAT YARN IS BATTLELESS

Secretary of Navy Tells Senate of Pershing's Expedition.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]
A new version of the submarine attack on the transports carrying the Pershing division of American troops, which is entirely devoid of reference to any battle between the submarines and the convoys of destroyers, was made public today by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Mr. Daniels stirred patriotic ardor on July 4 by announcing an American victory in the first naval battle with the U-boats. He described two "attacks in the night" by German submarines off the coast of France, and stated that American destroyers were believed to have sunk one submarine in the second encounter.

Subsequently Chairman Cress of the committee on public information, explained that he had elaborated Admiral Glaves' "somewhat cryptic" report of the incidents, but had not departed from the strict line of fact.

Thereupon Senator Penrose offered a resolution in the senate calling for the Glaves report. The resolution was referred to the committee on naval affairs, the chairman of which, Senator Tamm, Mr. Daniels addressed the senate, he now makes public.

Daniels' Statement.

"Late in the afternoon of July 8 the welcome news came that the last ship of the convoys and transports carrying the first American soldiers and marines to fight in France had reached its destination in safety, without accident or injury to men or ships," the secretary said. "The navy department had known for five days prior to their arrival that no attack by submarines had been made, and you can well understand the public anxiety lest torpedoes should have caused the loss of some of the brave men who were carrying out this hazardous enterprise."

"You may imagine, therefore, the unspeakable relief to me which the news conveyed the arrival of the last ship brought. This relief was, of course, shared by all others in the department who had been apprehensive every minute since June 23, when Admiral Glaves in a brief cable had reported that submarines had made attacks upon two divisions of the transports."

Prepare Story for Public.

"As soon as the news was communicated by an officer of the department I hurried to the war department to approve the secretary of war of the fact, for I knew he had felt the deepest solitude, as he, too, was informed of the attacks. It was in no form known to me, that the good news was given to Secretary Baker, and we shared a moment of exultation over the safety of our soldiers and soldiers and the accomplishment of the first stage of giving present military aid to the allies."

LAKE SHIPPING OF COAL URGED FOR NORTHWEST

Railroad War Board Makes Plea for Cooperation.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]
The provisions of a congressional war board designed to be a check on the administration in the conduct of the war, which was inserted in the senate food control bill, is destined to be the subject of acrimonious debate when the measure is returned to the house.

Operators Urged to Help.
To supply coal for the northwest the coming winter the railroad in the lake-carrying coal and ore trade in the Pittsburgh district are urged to induce all coal operators on their lines having contracts to supply coal via the lake ports to load during the remainder of the season at least 50 per cent of their daily supply of cars for such ports, there to be transhipped to the northwest.

One Shipment Involved.
"On the statistics of performance so far this season," said Fairfax Harrison, chairman of the board, "it is apparent that unless efforts are renewed and coal is moved at a greater rate for the remainder of the season than in the past months, the requirements will not be satisfied. At the same time the situation of coal accumulation at the furnaces in the Pittsburgh district for national requirements is involved."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]
The provisions of a congressional war board designed to be a check on the administration in the conduct of the war, which was inserted in the senate food control bill, is destined to be the subject of acrimonious debate when the measure is returned to the house.

The Republicans, led by Representative Madden, author of the proposal in the house, are citing many instances of alleged mismanagement of war activities and of the adoption of arbitrary policies as warrant for their contention that congress ought to hold a tight rein on the administration.

There has been a multitude of charges of mismanagement of war preparations. The latest one alleges that the war department's whole plan for providing quarters for the 500,000 men about to be called to the colors is threatened with serious embarrassment and delay as the result of a controversy over administrative methods between Maj. William H. Oury of the regular army and a prime factor in getting the work started, and Maj. R. E. Hamilton of the reserves.

Maj. Oury has been relieved of his duties at his own request.
Thorough investigation, it is said, shows that not more than two-thirds of the cantonments will be ready for troops by September.

U. S. OFFICERS IN FRANCE TAUGHT WAR METHODS

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, July 22.—A large group of American officers left today for France and British military schools to undergo a lengthy course of training in modern warfare. When the course is completed other officers will take their place and later noncommissioned officers will have the same opportunity.

The general in command of the camp refused to relax his strenuous daily program today, and made another inspection trip.
The chaplains with the American troops began their Sabbath duties early today, and by 7 o'clock most of them were in automobiles, which carried them from one encampment to another.
They spoke briefly to the men, delivering no sermons in the customary sense of the word, but talking to and with the soldiers. "The substance of their talks was an admonition to the men to remember they were engaged in a man's game, not a child's, and to act accordingly."

The main body of newspaper correspondents is expected to arrive tomorrow and join the representatives of the press association who already are installed here.

CLUB FORMED FOR COLLEGE MEN IN SERVICE ABROAD

service in France or being attached in any way to the cause of the allies will ican University union in Europe, which has been established to meet the needs of American university and college men passing through Paris.

There will be provided at a moderate cost a home with the privilege of a single club where men on furlough may obtain information, sleeping accommodations, medical service, and opportunities for recreation. Also this will be a central bureau for the various headquarters already established.

WOOLEXPERT AND DEALERS CONFER TO MEET CRISIS

State street department store men and Clyde Mann, secretary of the National Sheep and Wool bureau, will confer today with the National Council of Defense to discuss means to foster the sheep and wool industry.

"Unless immediate steps are taken to save what is left of the wool clip and to increase the normal production," said
D. P. Kelly, general manager of Mandel
Brothers and secretary of the State Street Retail Merchants' association,
"there is likely to be a serious shortage of material for clothing this winter. If scarcity of wool continues, it may be necessary to find a substitute for the manufacture of cloth."

"No time should be lost," said George Lyttton of the Hub, "in educating the public to the fact that wool is becoming scarcer every day. The people should be taught to breed sheep on the waste lands in the great lakes region."

"About 600,000,000 pounds of wool are utilized annually by the people of the United States," said Mr. Mann. "In the next few months the government will require 750,000,000 pounds."

300 Merchants Will Meet to Combat High Prices

Means of overcoming shortage and combating high prices of cotton goods, hosiery, and woolen materials will be discussed today at the opening of the Auditorium hotel at the first semi-annual Chicago convention of the United Mercantile Stores association. The convention will continue all week. Eight hundred merchants, representing 1,500 central western stores, will be present.

tion of limited quantities in private

WINNETKA GIRLS TAKE JACKIES TO BEACH PARTIES

Beach parties for the jockies of the Great Lakes Naval Training station are to be given every Saturday afternoon by the War Emergency union of Winnetka. Prominent women are taking turns acting as hostesses. One of these parties was held at the residence of Mrs.
Douglas Smith at Winnetka last Saturday.

Some of the promoters and hostesses are: Mrs. J. Allen Haines, Mrs. Ayres
Bowles, Mrs. James J. Houghtaling,
Mrs. Albert M. Kales, Miss Harriet Houghtaling, Mrs. E. B. Butler, and Mrs. Martin Insull.

Fifty jockies from the hospital corps went to the beach from Mrs. Smith's residence in the afternoon. Each was supplied with a hamper of food cooked by the daughters of the women of Winnetka. After an afternoon on the beach the boys danced at the Winnetka community center. They had Winnetka girls for partners.

After the dance refreshments were served at Mrs. Smith's house. A string quartet from the station played.

It is the desire of the citizens to give the boys wholesome recreation while they are away from their homes. Many of the boys have complained that this has been denied them in some of the north shore communities.

Keansburg, N. J., July 22.—Three men

When efforts were made to revive the victims with a pulmotor, the battery of the apparatus exploded, throwing acid over a dozen persons standing near by.
Three persons were burned so severely they were taken to hospital.

PROHIBITION IS HARD PROBLEM IN FOOD BILL

Measure May Go Through Conference and Pass
by End of Week.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]
Chairman Lever of the house committee on agriculture, prepared today to push the food bill through conference and through the house as fast as possible. Although he was prepared to make no prediction as to when the bill would be passed, it is understood the administration hopes to put the bill through by the end of the week.

The hardest fight will be on the prohibition amendment. Representative Webb, author of the house amendment, insisted today that he would insist on the adoption of the house provision in preference to the senate amendment.

Stands Pat on Liquor Clause.
"I intend to insist on my commanding provision as it passed the house," Mr. Webb said, "because if the senate commanding provision is adopted it would prevent bonded liquor to be withdrawn before the bill goes into effect, and the owners would sell it at figures that would set them a billion dollars. In fact, they now are drawing out bonded liquors to the extent of a million gallons a day."

The president should have power to commandeer not only liquor in bond but all liquors in stock in the United States.

May Put It Up to President.
"We will either absolutely prohibit the manufacture of beer and wine or provide that the president, in his discretion, may stop the manufacture of alcoholic liquors, or prescribe the conditions thereof."

The prohibition matter will be framed out in conference, if possible, but there is a chance that an agreement reached in conference might not be agreeable to one of the two houses, and that a prolonged fight over this feature might result.

The senate coal amendment probably will be accepted with little or no debate. There will be some opposition to the minimum of $5 a bushel on wheat.
The house will accept the amendment prohibiting persons connected with the council of national defense from soliciting government contracts.

BRITAIN FACES HARD FIGHT ON CORN MEASURE

LONDON, July 22.—Domestic politics, notwithstanding recent cabinet changes, is still in a state of unrest. The government is determined, as a peaceful war measure, to push the corn production bill through all stages before Parliament closes for the summer recess.

The bill, which proposes to pay fixed prices to farmers for cereal crops for a number of years after the war, as a means of inducing them to plow up grass lands and sown cereals, is meeting with strong opposition in the house of commons, especially from the members of the Asquith party. The bill proposes to pay farmers a minimum wage of $5.25 weekly.

The opponents of the bill contend that, reckoned by the present high cost of living, this is an inadequate wage, and their strong support of the amendment presented by George J. Wardle last week, making it the minimum, threatened the government with the prospect of defeat, and division on the amendment had to be deferred.

The government contends that acceptance of this amendment would wreck the bill. Division on the amendment is expected tomorrow.

GETS $1,500 FOR FORGOTTEN $2

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—A saving bank account of $1,500, which had been accumulating unclaimed in a Brooklyn bank for sixty years, has just found its owner in Yonkers, City Treasurer Albert Van Houten said today.

It goes to Mrs. F. A. Gaston of Hancock avenue, Lincoln Park, that city.
Mr. Gaston, who died two years ago, deposited a small sum of money in the Brooklyn Savings bank in 1847. He must have forgotten it, for he never mentioned it to his wife.

For forty years interest on the deposit compounded, and it brought the total up to $1,500. Delivery of the money was brought about through a law compelling banks to search for owners of unclaimed deposits.

AIR RAID ON ENGLAND

German aeroplanes yesterday morning attempted a raid directed at London, but were driven off before they had advanced far inland.

The double line of aeroplanes represented the probable course taken by the squadron of twenty or more machines, which presumably started from some German base in Belgium, probably Eecbrugge or cavalry on the Tarnopol road. Toward the evening of July 18 our troops made a stand on the south of the Tarnopol-Tarnopol-Tarnopol road.

On the Lower Narva river the artillery duel yesterday increased to considerable intensity. In the Carpathians there were local skirmishes.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, July 22.—The first division of the German guards, in its furthest attack on the eastern side of the Champs des Dames, on the Aisne front, during Tuesday night and Friday morning gained nothing but a death trap in the shape of a trench 500 or 600 yards long on the northern side of the west between Champs des Dames and Champs des Dames.

The objective of the Germans, to obtain possession of observation points, was defeated. Today hundreds of German bodies lie on the ground, and the Germans, who are in a position to observe movements of the enemy, are held in a death trap.

Stop All Reinforcements. The commandant today was most insistent on the French, who are in a position to observe movements of the enemy, are held in a death trap.

Remains Buried in Trenches. They met their fate in the shape of a trench, which was the result of the attack. The only point along the whole line of attack from Champs des Dames to the German line was the trench, which was the result of the attack.

All through Thursday night and Friday morning the fighting continued with great intensity. The German line was broken in several places, and the French were able to advance in some sectors.

CALLS FOR DRAFT EXAMINATION TO BEGIN TOMORROW

New Army Expected to Be Taking Form Within a Week.

Draft calls for service in the United States army will be made in each of the thirty-five exemption districts in Cook county tomorrow, unless unforeseen difficulties arise. Cards containing the call for the men whose numbers were among those first drawn in the army lottery were prepared yesterday by many of the exemption boards, and will be mailed as soon as Adj. Gen. Dickson makes known the quota needed from each district.

The exemption boards in Chicago will learn the quotas required from their districts either tomorrow night, or early Tuesday. "The figures are being accepted as rapidly as possible," it is estimated that the first 1,000 names drawn in Washington would call 6,000 men for examination in Chicago and Cook county. This would probably require 24,000 men after exemptions have been completed. The estimates of Chicago and Cook county's quota for the first call, however, range from 17,000 to 25,000 men.

Lists in Preparation.
New lists of the registered men are being prepared in the order of their liability to service are being prepared by the boards. The first to come from the lists will be in the drawing at Washington Friday is first on each of the lists, and followed by the names of the men having the serial number of 222. Approximately twice the number of men that is wanted from each district will be called for medical examination.

Examinations Saturday.
Under the arrangements that have been made by Adj. Gen. Dickson the first draft drawn in each district will appear for physical examination five days after the summons is made. Next Sunday is the probable time when the examinations will start unless the work of the local boards should not be completed until Wednesday. In the latter case the examinations will begin on Monday.

Every man in the call must make his appearance for physical examination. He may be called for exemption, for other reasons later, but there is no exemption from physical examination. Regulations of the most rigid kind governing this part of the work have been issued for the guidance of the local boards.

Federal Agents Aid.
Government agents working under instructions from William G. Clinebaugh, chief of the local bureau of investigation, are maintaining careful supervision over the work of drafting the first group.

Investigations yesterday uncovered the fact that many men in registering on June 5 gave fictitious names or addresses. Some of the addresses have been found to be vacant lots, school buildings, factories, etc.

Two years' imprisonment is in store for each of these men if caught. Each will face a court martial. Similar punishment awaits "hoaxers" who have changed their places of abode on June 5 and have not left forwarding addresses. Changes of addresses have been exceedingly heavy, it is said, in districts of the city where German sympathizers and persons of German ancestry have their residences.

Search for Blackers.
A search will be thrown out by the military department of justice around the industrial centers of the country for the purpose of rounding up "this sort of" slackers and shirkers.

Efforts for the call marked nearly every section in local boards for investigation yesterday. Many men declared that they are waiting up their return to join the army, and hope to be able to pass the physical examination.

Disappointment met several men in the Forty-second district yesterday who called on the headquarters for information. They learned, however, that headquarters had been changed from 200 North Ashland avenue to the second floor of the Rogers Park police station.

"We have more room there," said Louis D. Wallace, chairman of the board.

Seven Days to File Claims.
Men who are found physically qualified for military service have seven days in which to file claims for exemption, if they wish to do so. Efforts will be made by the boards to dispose of these claims within three days, and to issue orders to the men who are called into the service in about ten days from today.

Appeals from the ruling of the local exemption boards may be made within ten days after the decision is rendered. Additional evidence, consisting of affidavits, can be filed with the appeal.

Protest with "religious objections" against the draft must run the gauntlet of both the local exemption boards and the federal agents. Several exemptions were granted in spreading "religious" and "conscientious objection" by the federal agents, and arrests are being made.

Resisters Investigated.
Careful lists of organizations and societies in Chicago whose members place themselves in the pacifist class have been made by the government agents, to be used with the names of all known persons in the class. Only such organizations as have a recognized existence on the part of the exemption boards, and have been given consideration by the local exemption boards, are being listed in the county is being

APPEAL

Draft Boards Want Use of School Gymnasiums for Examining Conscripts.

APPPLICATION for the use of gymnasiums in schoolhouses in Chicago for conducting the physical examinations of men subject to military draft will be made to the board of education today by Dr. J. E. H. Atkinson and other members of the exemption board of the Sixty-fifth district.

Avaricious landlords on the northwest side have demanded $25 and $30 a day rental for the use of vacant store buildings by the board for its work. These sums, if paid, would have to come from the pockets of the local exemption board, who are doing their work without compensation.

"We have been unable to find a single vacant store we could use without charges," said Dr. Atkinson, "and our only hope of adequate space for our work is in securing a school gymnasium in the district."

urged by Dennis J. Egan, chief clerk of the election board, to devise a system for conducting its work in accord with a specimen plan that has been submitted by his office.

"Unless a plan of procedure similar in all its essentials is followed by all of the boards, confusion may result," said Mr. Egan. "By using a little system, congestion in the headquarters can be avoided, and every one be satisfied that he has had a square deal."

The men who are called are going forward to perform a public service, and it behooves us to accord them courtesy and respectful treatment."

42D DRAFT BOARD FILE TENTATIVE RESIGNATION

Members of the exemption board of the Forty-second district, with headquarters at 600 Blue Island avenue, telegraphed a tentative resignation to President Wilson yesterday as an outcome of the draft chaos there. The telegram was signed by Dr. Raoul R. Haas, chairman. The message says in part:

"In the Forty-second division there is a total registration of 3,768. Of this number there are 2,948 aliens, constituting 78.2 per cent of the total registration, leaving 1,820 citizens to draw from. If quota to be furnished is based upon the total number registered it will be impossible to comply with same. The unfairness of such a request is apparent."

"To do justice to our fellow citizens of this district, the quota should be based upon the number of citizens registered, and not upon the total registration. Unless quota be furnished based as suggested above, we do hereby and herewith tender our resignation, to take effect immediately."

J. BULL INVADERS US, BUT JUST ON A FRIENDLY CALL

Kilties the First British Troops Here Since the War of 1812.

The inspiring sight of British troops on active duty under arms marching through American streets will be witnessed by Chicago today, when the crack Forty-eighth Canadian Highlanders and their regimental band will parade the loop during the noon hour.

This is the first time in 104 years that British soldiers on active duty have set foot on American soil. The battle of New Orleans in 1814 ended the war of 1812.

To Stir British Recruiting.
The Highlanders, 300 strong, who came here at this time to stimulate "British recruiting week," arrived last night and were met at the La Salle street station by a delegation of the Chicago British committee on allied recruiting.

The officers, headed by Lieut. Col. C. W. Darling and Maj. the Rev. J. Crawford Brown, chaplain of the regiment, were driven to the Blackstone hotel, while the soldiers and band marched to the Board of Trade hotel playing and singing a hymn.

The battalion, which came direct from New York, brings as a tribute of American regard the colors of the Seventy-first regiment of New York. This tribute is almost unknown in military courtesies.

The "Ladies of Hell."
It was this Highlander battalion that the Germans named "Ladies of Hell." It was these men and the Eighth battalion that the Germans also named the "Little Black Devils" for their stand at Langemark, which practically saved the day.

The MacLean Kilties did not arrive with the Highlanders as expected last night. It was announced in New York just before the special train left for Chicago that Lieut. Col. Percy A. Guthrie in command had received instructions to return to Valcartier camp in Quebec province.

Both Law to Fly.
As an escort to our English allies, Ruth Law, the aviator, will fly over the line of march during the parade, which is planned to start at 11 o'clock and end at 1:30. A file and drum corps from G. A. R. veterans will also participate.

H. M. Byllesby, chairman of the American committee on allied recruiting, which is cooperating with the British committee in appealing for a successful drive during the week, says:

"Nothing will so contribute to the strength of the allied cause and to the discouragement of the Germans as the conviction that the United States of America, 'consecrated in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal,' is in this war to the finish, and that it proposes to do its full part with our allies in winning this struggle."

PASTORS PRAISE MEN HONORED BY CALL TO SERVE

'Draft' and 'Conscript' Opposed as Odious Words.

Young men who were selected in the national conscription last Friday were called "honored" men by ministers in their pulpits yesterday. Two ministers advocated the dropping of the word "draft" and "conscript" and substituting the word "called" on the part of the government.

One minister said he carefully scanned the list of drafted men and felt disappointed that his church had not been honored by the selection of a single man in the drafted list, although several had previously volunteered. "The only way our country can meet its great responsibility" was the way another pastor described the method of selection.

A High Honor.
The Rev. J. M. Dean, pastor of the Second Baptist church, Jackson boulevard and South Dearborn street, said:

"We consider it a high honor for our man to be called to the service of his country. I think the word draft ought to be changed to call so as to eliminate any of the old associations connected with the use of the term historically. We want no bad feelings created between volunteers and the drafted men as though some were willing to go and some went only because they had to go. Many of the men who are called are just as willing and are just as patriotic as the men who volunteer."

The church has arranged to give Friday evening instruction in the manual of arms to registered men. The Rev. Mr. Anderson rebuked the petition asking favors for "conscientious objectors."

"There are several young men in our church whose names appeared in the draft list," said the Rev. J. S. Ladd, pastor of the Austin Methodist Episcopal church. "I called personally on each of them and extended my congratulations."

"O Lord, bless the young men who have been honored by being called into the service of their country," was the language used by the Rev. T. W. Nickey of the Cretan Memorial Presbyterian church in his prayer yesterday morning.

The Rev. Austin Hunter of the Jackson Boulevard Christian church said three Chinese young men who are members of his congregation were among those in the selected list.

THE APPETITE FOR ORATORY.

In our anxiety to discover ulterior motives that may be obstructing congressional action we ought not to overlook the most elemental and ubiquitous source of delay. More than anything else, perhaps, it is the desire to talk, the craving for articulation, that shackles legislative progress.

This appetite for oratory grows keener as the audience grows larger. It was bad enough when people paid little attention to congress, but now that everybody wants to know what is happening in Washington the house and senate have risen to new heights of eloquent futility. With all this outpouring of talk it is naturally hard to get any legislation to a vote.

In a sense we have brought this state of affairs on our own heads. It is usually the most vocal, the most voluble, persons in the community that we elect to legislative bodies. A cynic might say we send them there to get a little peace and quiet back home. But it takes no urging to persuade them to stand for election. Our legislative halls have become the legislative goal, the natural forum, for those endowed, or afflicted, with the speechmaking propensity.

Speechmaking is at a discount everywhere except in congress or similar legislative bodies. The board of directors of a large corporation sets down to business without wasting words. Yet congress, with infinitely greater business on its hands, has to talk itself out before it can do anything. The right of free speech is construed as the right of unlimited speech.

It may be futile to try to bring about a reform, but at least we can echo with approval Senator John Sharp Williams' wisest plan for more action and less talk on the part of his colleagues. Perhaps we might get congress to adopt one or two talkless days a week. It would be a great help.

As congress goes on talking we see more clearly the need for competent executive management to conduct the great business we have undertaken. Legislative management, with its appetite for oratory, will not suffice.

THE DUTY OF ALL AMERICANS.

Recent editorials of THE TRIBUNE on the subject of anti-Americanism, with special reference to the course which many, if not all, of the German language publications in this country, and some not printed in German, have permitted themselves since our war with Germany began, has called forth an editorial in our local contemporary, the Staats-Zeitung, entitled "We Protest," which was published in THE TRIBUNE'S advertising columns Saturday.

The protest seems to be directed, first, against an alleged attempt to stir up hatred toward German-Americans, and, second, against some fancied denial of the exercise of free criticism of public policies.

As to stirring up hatred against the German-American, the Staats-Zeitung is not so regardless of fact as to charge this against THE TRIBUNE, but it seems to think our objections to the policy of the German language press will have that unhappy result.

The Staats-Zeitung and its contemporaries would be wiser if they examined this idea a little further. It would be well for all concerned—and we are all concerned for our internal good feeling—if they would realize that it is the course adopted by this press, not criticism of it, that will "stir up" dislike and distrust, if not hatred, against German-Americanism in this country, if this course is inimical to the national cause in this war, as it most certainly is.

And this brings us to the second object of the Staats-Zeitung protest, the alleged denial of free discussion of government policies.

There is no such denial. The objection to the course of the German language press is to its studied policy of detraction toward our allies. That is not discussion of government policy.

We must remind the German-American press that Americans are practical minded, and look to the effect of things, not to theories. Now, the effect of constant sneers at Great Britain, for example, the effect of the constant implication that German forces are or will be victorious over our allies: the effect of suggestions such as that referred to in THE TRIBUNE'S editorial respecting the annexation of Canada, can be only to encourage discord and obstruct cooperation between us and the nations that are helping us to fight Germany. Common sense tells any one that this is hurtful, and no amount of protesting will square it with American conceptions of loyalty. No, nor any other conception of loyalty. To repeat our analogy of a previous editorial, if newspapers printed in English and published in Germany by American-Germans should fill their columns in war time with matter obstructing and irritating to Americans, Hungarian, Bulgarian, and Turkish, and with reports implying constantly that American armies are invincible, what German would be foolish enough to accept protests of loyalty in exchange for such a course, and how long would that course be tolerated by the German government?

The Staats-Zeitung's editorial "protest," unfortunately, suggests the lady in Hamlet's play who protested too much. It is high time for the German-American press, which have evidently allowed their pre-war patriotism to continue over the line of our entrance into the war, to realize that they are doing German-Americans in this country an injury that will be serious and of long duration. Protests are going to be judged by acts, and the loyal American public cannot be fooled, by mere assertions of patriotism, into condoning what is in fact injurious to America's situation in this war. No man in his senses will tolerate those who are helping him, and when hatred of England, or Italy, or any other of the nations now engaged with us against Germany cannot suppress itself, it is because it is superior to America's patent interest.

But the editors of the German-American press insist they are pro-American, not "pro-British," and they imply that Americans who criticize them are pro-British. "The tendency of some American newspapers to prefer the interests of Great Britain to those of our country," says the Staats-Zeitung, "we deplore and condemn." A statement of this kind merely confuses the issue. It would be just as logical to say that Germany is placing the interests of Austria-Hungary above her own. If it is silly to think America will ever become pro-British, yet the German-American press is seeking to revive ancient causes of enmity against Great Britain. What and do they hope to serve? Does their definition of "pro-Americanism" involve the annihilation of our allies for the high purpose of allowing us to fight Germany single handed? If this is not the case, it is ridiculous to say that we are placing British interests above our own simply because we "deplore and condemn" the propaganda for dismembering the British nation at this critical time.

All German-Americans who are loyal and stop to think what loyalty requires will disapprove the mistakes and demoralizing tone and conduct of a press which does not seem yet to realize that this country faces Germany now as a foe in arms and will so be treated by Germany. The man who does not welcome the aid of allies against Germany while the war lasts, but who sows dissension between us and those we fight beside, is placing Germany's success before America's. No elaborate argumentation will conceal that from loyal Americans, and the pity of it is such a course will bring about exactly the resentment and distrust of German-Americans that the Staats-Zeitung fears and all sensible Americans would deplore.

THE ANATOMY OF REVOLUTION.

In Russia, the land of now-you-see-it-and-now-you-don't, all is unstable for the present, but are Russians? Is it not as likely that what passes for lack of mental and moral balance on the part of Russians is only a result, at worst temporary, of forces active in most revolutionary crises? Rather than take a pessimistic or ungenerous view, we think it worth while to look into what might be called the anatomy of revolution.

A revolution, to the spectator from afar, is a simple though tremendous affair in which a whole nation has abruptly changed its mind. Seen near to, and (so to speak) dissected, it is no such thing. Whole classes hardly know that a revolution is going on; they drudge as before and are not participants. Other whole classes care little or nothing except as change may affect business. Among the revolutionists themselves there are dreamers and visionaries, there are hard headed, practical men of excellent gifts but limited experience, there are constructive statesmen, there are the ignorant and criminal who mistake license for liberty, there are impulsive fellows who set out with great courage but take flight at their own doing.

Meanwhile the old order has broken down and a new order must be erected with raw and unseasoned timber. Inevitably the wrong officials are too often selected. As inevitably they are exposed. Disappointment, even reaction, sets in. It is met by strong measures attended with uproar. And so goes the story—one faction ruling today, another tomorrow, and, as seen from afar, the nation a kind of chills-and-fevers patient blundering about in the dark. Unhappy souls discount the fever-and-ague and would have the patient examined as to his sanity.

The truth seems to be this: Revolution is a social and political civil war among numerous factions within the state. It is necessarily that. Order may evolve quickly. It may evolve only after years have elapsed. But nothing is more unjust than to assume that merely because a nation takes a long time to straighten itself out after a revolutionary crash the national mind and character lack stability. France underwent three revolutions before France became a permanent republic, yet nowhere has the great war revealed stability of mind and character more clearly than in France.

VAUDEVILLE AND WAR.

Showcases of public sentiment, the vaudeville houses exhibit a growing enthusiasm for war. Week by week the applause grows louder. For one thing, there is more to applaud. The screens show Pershing in France. Hardly a comedian but feels the Kaiser or damns him. Hardly a singer but sings of war. In doggerel, it is true. Too often in what might be termed "mad doggerel." But always the patriotic note is there. It rings out brave and clear.

The main thing noticeable, however, is not the increased vividness of films or the redoubled boldness of jokes and songs; it is the heightened responsiveness of the audience. The mere act of giving vent to strong emotion makes the emotion twice as strong. The more you applaud patriotism the more patriotic you become. Besides, enthusiasm is catching. The indifferent, the faint hearted, even the more or less anti-American by instinct, find themselves overwhelmed by number and caught in a rushing tide they cannot resist.

This accounts in part for the growing applause. Vaudeville houses are making converts to Americanism. People who applauded perfunctorily a week or two ago applaud uproariously now. To performers and film makers it is perhaps not always an affair of service to their country, but as a rule it is. They have done more than merely mold the popular hand wagon and bid for appreciation and profit. They have developed themselves to the fine, patriotic task of whipping up enthusiasm and are loyally doing their part.

Editorial of the Day

REED OF MISSOURI.

(From the Kansas City Star.)
 Once more it is Reed of Missouri who is found opposing the president, blocking urgent war legislation, appealing to class passions, assailing character, impugning motives. Reed of Missouri, attacking Hoover, is running true to form. Reed of Missouri, fighting against food control, is consistently against the administration and consistently on the side of hidden privileges. Reed of Missouri, whether representing the worst in politics and corruption interests in Kansas City or lining up with the war profiteers in the senate, is Reed of Missouri all the time.

Before he was Reed of Missouri and gave the state unsavory notoriety in the senate he was Reed of Kansas City and was different in no material respect except as regarded the extent of his capacity for harm. In Kansas City he was always to be found on the side of the anti-public forces. He had and has a natural predilection for the malign and the dishonest in politics and astroturfing. He consorted and consorts by preference with those who work under cover. He hated and hates the light and men who do things in the light. Reed of Kansas City was known here for exactly what Reed of Missouri is coming to be known in the senate and in the country.

Those who best know Reed of Kansas City can understand his personal animus to Hoover.

Variation on an Old Theme.

Sir: Everybody knows Mr. Denman, but who the deuce is Maj. Gen. Goethals?

OUR excruciating friend T. T. has a simple solution of the so-called ship-building riddle. He suggests that Denman and Goethals play a 36-hole match at golf, one using wooden clubs and the other iron. The gate receipts, which would be enormous, would of course go to the Red Cross.

A DOMESTIC NATHAN HALE.

Sir: Friend wire is sewing for the Red Cross, and I regret that I have not more underwear to go buttonless for my country.

THAT WAS THE IDEA.

Sir: Do you think putting the draft numbers in capsules will make it easier for the Kaiser to take his medicine?

The Death of Bede.

[Quoted in the introduction to "Golden Days of the Early English Church"]

On the Wednesday before Ascension Day he became worse, but still taught and dictated cheerfully. The next day he bade us write diligently what we had begun, and this we did to the third hour. We then walked in procession with the relics, as was customary. One of us stayed behind who said: "There is still one chapter wanting of the book which thou hast been dictating, but it seems hard for thee to be questioned further." "Nay," said he, "it is easy; take thy pen and mend it quickly and write!" And he did so. The brethren were then summoned to hear his last commandment. The same boy, Wilbert, said once more: "There is still one sentence wanting, which is not written down." He replied: "Then write it." And he answered: "Well thou hast spoken the truth, it is finished. Take my hands in thy hands"—thus upon the floor of his cell, singing "Gloria be to the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost," and the rest, he breathed his last.

HOW THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS FEEL ABOUT IT.

I HAVE talked with a moderate number of regulars and militiamen relative to the new provisions against drunkenness and venereal diseases employed by and reported to be presently employed by the army and navy. Some of these regulations were with men along the Mexican border and some with men called into camps during the last three months.

I do not know that the opinions expressed are a composite of the opinions held by all the men, or even a reliable indication of the trend. There is no way of certainly knowing what the composite opinion or the general trend of opinion is. All that I know is that as the result of talking with a considerable number of private soldiers and sailors, without revealing who I was or what my interest was, I have come to the conclusion that this is the way they feel about the measures proposed and in operation.

They have been told that if they are not allowed to have liquor they will be more efficient. Also that they will be less subject to illness. On the other hand, they have been told that the English soldier has his ration of rum; the French soldier has his allowance of wine; the German soldier has his allotment of beer. Neither argument makes any appeal to him.

It has always been the custom of soldiers to relax when on short leave. They would like to follow the custom. They are told that if they will they will be away from loved women and will take certain precautions they will not have venereal disease. They have also been told that venereal disease is at present the largest source of disability in an army or navy. The argument makes no particular appeal to them. They have not thought about it. So far as prophylaxis is concerned, nearly every soldier has a story of some individual who used disease, and another of individuals who ducked the prophylactic and yet had no venereal disease. To the counter statement as to what the statistics show they make no reply. The individual is more influenced by individual experiences than by massed experiences and laws of averages.

They have been told that civilians are making an effort to enforce prohibition in and near military establishments, to abolish long shore duty and other leaves of absence, and to prohibit lewd women congregating or even living around camps.

The soldiers and sailors with whom I talked say, all right, they will stand for it, although they are not for it, but they do object to being singled out. If they are to be under prohibition they want the other fellow to be under it. If prohibition promotes efficiency and health it is an army, "as you fellows say it does." It also promotes them in the men who elude, seek goods, work in factories, raise crops, argue in court, and practice medicine.

If women are to be denied them, then they want them denied to other men. Venereal disease is as bad for men outside the army and navy as for men in it. They don't want to be singled out as exceptionally bad, wicked, or weak. They do not want to be held up as especially in need of protective care. They want to be treated just like the other fellows.

G. K. UNLICKELY.

T. C. writes: "Will you kindly tell me if the following are sufficient to reject one after having been drafted by the government?"

"Tubercular glands in the neck which swell and cause distress every winter. In fact, there are tubercular bumps scattered all over body."

"Disseminated leprosy."

"Middle finger of left hand stiff."

"Left hand."

"Left arm broken at elbow and as a result considerably shorter than the right arm."

"Left ankle broken and fatigued after walking."

"Nephritis."

REPLY.

I do not think this list will pass.

SOME CURABLE.

B. E. writes: "I am chronic irritator of the bladder curable? 2. Are the symptoms of chronic cystitis similar to those of chronic prostatitis?"

REPLY.

1. Yes. Chronic irritator of the bladder is merely a symptom. Some of the diseases of which it is a symptom are curable. Others are not.

2. Chronic irritator of the bladder is one of the symptoms of chronic cystitis.

3. Chronic irritator of the bladder may be a symptom of cancer of the bladder. Chronic cystitis may result in cancer of the bladder.

PROBABLY EXEMPT.

J. M. T. writes: "[1]. Will a chronic suppuration of several years' standing bar a young man 24 years old from service in the army or navy? [2]. Is not a mastoid liable to be a source of infection?"

REPLY.

1. It would.

2. Possibly.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

(Copyright, 1917, by the Syndicate Co.)

THERE is no more stately noble in Germany than the septuagenarian Prussian Gen. Prince Wedel, former military governor of Berlin, who for many years ambassador at St. Petersburg, was a militia officer and governor general of Alsace-Lorraine. He has remained to such an extent popular gratias at Vienna that the Kaiser frequently sends him there on confidential missions. The prince usually takes the night train, reaching the Danubian state at 7 in the morning.

The other day on arriving in Vienna from Berlin he discovered to his consternation that a thief had been busy in the sleeping car during the night, had robbed him of his portfolio containing the important documents relating to his mission, his pocketbook with all his money, his suitcases and light luggage, may, even his very clothes that he had taken on the train. In fact, the thief had reached Vienna with literally nothing on but his night shirt and dressing gown.

It was thus ascertained that he was met when the train came to a standstill by the police, who had captured the thief. The prince, who was always at Vienna, and it was in this garb that he was compelled to drive through the streets of Vienna all the way from the Northern railroad terminus to the German embassy, where the thief had been presenting a spectacular appearance.

Fortunately he has a keen sense of humor and was quite alive to the comic features of the situation, though, of course, put out by the loss of his papers. He had to add that the thief had been laid at the doors of secret agents of the powers of the empire.

The episode recalls the adventure of Lord Buxton, now governor general of South Africa, who, while waiting for a train which was to carry him from his country place in Sussex up to London to attend a cabinet meeting, happened to sit on a grassy mound at the Haslemere Hill station, ignorant of the fact that the moonlight was shining down on him as he had entered the train he found that he had invaded his clothes. As he was alone in the compartment he quickly divested himself of his sash and gaiters and endeavored to rid them of the insects by shaking the trousers out of the window. A train coming from the opposite direction, tore them out of his hands.

The result was that Lord Buxton reached the terminus in London trousers, was at first taken for a dangerous lunatic, and then, when he had explained matters, was compelled to borrow a pair of much worn corduroy pants from a fat old railway porter, and to proceed thus attired to the cabinet council at 10 Downing street, where his appearance served to enliven the tediousness of the proceedings. It was a case of "discretion, discretion, discretion," as the saying is, and all the doors were closed there was no means of buying a pair of trousers on his way from the station to the prime minister's official residence.

Lord Winborne, who, if reports in political and official circles in London are to be believed, is resigning his office of viceroy of Ireland, has just lost the most popular and gifted dignitary of his court at Dublin through the death of Col. Sir Anthony Wedel, a death which will assuredly be taken much to heart by Lord Aberdeen, now in New York. For "Tony" Wedel occupied the same office throughout the Aberdeen long term of "discretion, discretion, discretion," as the saying is, and all the doors were closed there was no means of buying a pair of trousers on his way from the station to the prime minister's official residence.

The new Marquis of Milford Haven, who commanded the British squadron that visited New York some eight years ago, has excited a good deal of criticism by transferring his family name of Milford Haven to the English name of Mount Batten. For the name Mount Batten has belonged for hundreds of years to a well known Devonshire family, known and honored throughout the southwest of England. Its late head was Lord Lieutenant of the county of Dorset.

Col. John Mount Batten of Upson in Dorsetshire was gathered to his fathers only last year, not long after receiving the news of the death of his eldest son, a captain of the army at the front in France.

The new Marquis of Milford Haven insists that he was unaware of this, and that he took his new patronymic from the name of the little headland overlooking the old harbor at Plymouth, from which Sir Francis Drake sailed.

EXISTING EQUITIES AND BANK FAILURES.

Chicago, July 17.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—Unfortunately we had our checking account with Graham & Sons bank, who incidentally have made us a loan on our building to the amount of $25,000 covered by a bond issue. There is still a balance of $17,000 due the contractor of the building, but would add that Graham & Sons already have sold the bonds.

It seems to me that the money at our disposal in the bank should be a preferred claim to be paid in full, since this money in question was at our disposition and not drawing any interest whatever.

Shadow of Famine Fails to Divert Feminine Public from the Opera.

The following is a report of an interview given to Henry N. Hall of the New York World by Frederic Conrad Penfield, who, as ambassador of the United States to Austria-Hungary, has acquired authority in the information about conditions actually existing inside the dual monarchy. The information thus obtained is here presented, with Mr. Penfield's permission.

ARTICLE II.

There seems to have adjusted itself to war conditions as if warfare had been the business of the nation. Naturally, the feminine element is far and away predominant. One does not see many men in the city, sitting in the cafes, or in the theaters, or in the opera houses. The people who are in the city are women, and they are in the city for the same reason as in the past. The information thus obtained is here presented, with Mr. Penfield's permission.

Woman Sues Broker for $20,000 for Alleged Losses in Stock Market.

Mrs. Rosella F. Fildes

The war put an end to her Paris jaunts, and the promise business of designing gowns for Chicago women grew monstrous. She had to have a little fun somehow, so she took to speculating. "It's a great game," she said, "and I'm willing to take my chance with the best of them, but I can't afford to lose forever." So she filed a $20,000 damage suit in the Circuit court Saturday against E. W. Wagner of E. W. Wagner & Co., stock brokers, 208 South La Salle street. She is Mrs. Rosella Fildes, widow, of 4100 Vincennes avenue.

Mrs. Fildes says she has lost between $15,000 and $20,000 in the two years. And Mr. Wagner says Mrs. Fildes is a woman of first class imagination, and that her losses do not exceed $2,500. He denies that her account was ever solicited. "It is a rule of our house not to handle the accounts of women," he reiterated. "Because my brother had an account with us that rule was broken. I have nothing whatever to conceal in this matter. This case is just a nuisance, nothing more."

half from Belgrade by a governor general, Count Sella-Sewitz, appointed by the Emperor Francis Joseph. King Ferdinand will try to have a commanding voice in discussing the future of Serbia, and he still believes Bulgaria will enormously benefit territorially for its "autonomous" in having joined the central powers in the world war.

Substitute for Cotton. Science is augmenting war necessities, and it is unofficially claimed that cotton is no longer necessary for gunpowder production. For months past, a new wood cellulose has been employed, and as it is stated, found to be so much better than cotton that it will continue to be used after the war is ended. Instead of Chinese nitrate, both Austria-Hungary and Germany are getting nitrate from the air sufficient to supply needs of ammunition makers, with something left over for use as land fertilizer. A synthetically produced substitute has also been found for the camphor hitherto used in the manufacture of explosives, produced more cheaply than the original article.

The advent of synthetic rubber is further announced, but rubber experts believe that for a long time no substance can be found to take the place of the resilient gift of the tropics. Anyway, too much of the genuine article filters into Germany and Austria through Holland and Sweden to give much color to the artificial article. Nitric acid gathered from the "air" is probably a twentieth century fact, but synthetic rubber is almost certainly a myth.

Women Aristocrats in War. Women of gentle birth were no laggards when war came, for they immediately entered the hospitals or went to the front as nurses. There is scarcely an aristocrat or feminine member of the great imperial family who has not dedicated herself to her country's cause. When the history is written of Austria-Hungary's part in the world war the chapter treating of the work of women should be one redounding to the credit of womanhood for all time.

In Vienna one now sees archaic and ramshackle taxicabs that wheeze and groan and threaten to burst any minute. Good cabs, in common with all private automobiles, were long since commandeered for military purposes. It is plain to comprehend the reason for not commandeering these now running on the streets for hire.

The cab and delivery horse form one of the most pathetic sights in the cities. They are the outcasts and refuse of all horse-drawn transport, the discarded wrecks of horses that once proudly lifted the weight of their own heads, which usually droop in close proximity to the ground as if looking for the grain they never get.

Paroled Prisoner Tries Holdup and Is Arrested. Leslie Kearney, formerly a Joliet prisoner, now on parole and a resident of Hope hall, 616 West Ravenswood Park avenue, fell from grace last night when he held up Gus Courtney, waiter in a restaurant at 306 Broadway and tried to escape with $13. Several policemen responded to the waiter's cries and fired several bullets at Kearney. He halted and was arrested.

MILLIONS GO FOR WAR ORDERS AND SAVING IS MADE

Bulletin Shows How Huge Task Is Accomplished at Capital.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—How the business men assisting the government on the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense have negotiated millions of dollars' worth of war orders at less than market prices is described in a bulletin issued by the chamber of commerce of the United States tonight.

The government believed that in shoe buying, the usual procedure, however satisfactory for smaller quantities, might not be best for securing 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 shoes. On its recent purchases the quartermaster's department, therefore, consulted the supply committee of the Council of National Defense for advice on the shoe problem.

All Materials Arranged For. Investigation by the committee immediately developed that of the required grades there was not enough leather in the entire country for such an order. Therefore, before the government undertook to purchase the shoes, the supply committee had conferences with the packers, and secured an understanding that when the leather manufacturers entered the market for hides required for the leather on the government's order for shoes, the price on hides should be no higher than the prevailing price, but a declared-price lower than those prevailing at the time the conference was held.

Leather Price Kept Down. Meetings were arranged with those of whom the purchases were to be made. They agreed when the shoe manufacturers had conferences with the packers, and secured an understanding that when the leather manufacturers entered the market for hides required for the leather on the government's order for shoes, the price on hides should be no higher than the prevailing price, but a declared-price lower than those prevailing at the time the conference was held.

New Use for Carpet Looms. The experts of the supply committee concluded that carpet and other manufacturers could produce suitable duffs if their looms were changed and if the government requirements were somewhat modified. The carpet manufacturers, for example, isolated that the supply committee's suggestion was quite impossible, and that cotton duck could not be manufactured on carpet looms. The manufacturers of the looms also said that the committee's suggestion was actually tried, and has been found practical and entirely successful, according to the bulletin.

Lightning Destroys Barn and Stock Worth $15,000. Joliet, Ill., July 22.—[Special.]—The main barn at the Will county poor farm, two miles east of Joliet, the biggest barn in the county, with its contents, eighty tons of hay and ten head of cattle, was lost last night in a fire which resulted when the building was struck by lightning. The total loss will amount approximately to $15,000, officials of the farm say.

SKIMP JOYRIDES: YOUR COUNTRY NEEDS THE GAS!

Oil Head Says Jaunts for Fun Must Be Curtailed.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—If the United States government is to have the petroleum it will need to prosecute the war successfully the public will have to economize in the use of gasoline. Sufficient gasoline should be available to provide for all the normal uses of automobiles. But pleasure riding should be curtailed. People should look upon their automobiles as necessities to be used only when needed. Not a gallon of gasoline should be used in the present emergency except for some useful end.

This is the warning to the American people, especially to the owners of automobiles, sounded by A. C. Bedford, president of the Standard Oil company, in an interview made public here today. Mr. Bedford is chairman of the committee on petroleum of the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense.

Drawing on Reserve. "This country," Mr. Bedford said, "is producing crude oil at the rate of about 300,000 barrels a year, but it is using it at the rate of 335,000 barrels a year. The amount of crude oil in storage, all grades, May 1, 1917, was 105,938,797 barrels. The country is absorbing the entire current production and drawing rapidly upon its reserve supply.

Urges Producers to New Effort. "Although there have been almost three times as many new wells drilled in 1917 as in 1915, the total production is considerably less than in 1915. The drilling of wells is still going on, but thus far there has been no increase in production over last year or the year before.

Every oil producer in the country should be encouraged as a patriotic effort to secure the utmost possible output of crude oil. The present expense of drilling new wells is great and increasing and the results are often discouraging. But there is oil to be had if producers in the oil business will redouble their efforts to get it out of the ground.

O. K. with Proper Economy. "I have the utmost confidence in the spirit with which the government will meet this problem in the matter of price, which is now being investigated by the federal trade commission. "With proper economy on the part of the public and with sufficient operation and effort on the part of oil producers, there should be ample to supply the needs of our government, of our allies, of industry in this country, and for domestic use."

DIAMOND WEDDING

Clergman and His Wife Will Celebrate Anniversary Today.

The Rev. and Mrs. James Frothingham of 4740 Dorchester avenue will celebrate today their sixtieth wedding anniversary. They are both 61 years of age.

Mr. Frothingham, after graduating from Union college and Princeton Theological seminary, was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1887, the year of his marriage.

For twenty-five years Mr. Frothingham was stated clerk of the Chicago presbytery, and on his resignation last October was presented by his friends with a purse of $500.

Mrs. Frothingham was Miss Charles Dexter Hazeltine. Their wedding journey was made by wagon to Indian territory, where they were missionaries to the Choctaws.

Mr. Frothingham is a grand-nephew of Washington Irving.

STORM SWEEPS DESTRUCTION SOUTH OF CITY

Many Are Hurt and Much Damage Is Done to Property.

Dens of people were injured and property valued at thousands of dollars damaged by a violent hail and wind storm which swept a thirty mile stretch of country between Joliet and Argo yesterday.

Picnickers at Delwood park, seven miles north of Joliet, and at Leary Grove, near Summit, were thrown into panic and many injured. The camp of the First Illinois Infantry at Delwood park was blown down. Hundreds of trolley, telegraph, and telephone poles along the right of way of the Chicago and Joliet Electric railway and many trees were uprooted.

Live Wires Peril. Live electric wires spread in a network over the north and threatened death to travelers. The poles and trees blown across the tracks and the wagon road stopped all traffic. The small towns between Joliet and Chicago were shut off from communication with the outside world.

Camp Flattened. The camp of the First Illinois Infantry, with sufficient tents for 400 men, was flattened. The tents in many instances went careening skyward. The soldiers, depending to the sky, worked to save their shelters.

A number of houses in Summit and Argo were unroofed and partly wrecked. All basements were flooded. The high wind continued thirty minutes. When it ceased the roads were a mass of debris.

Fifteen special cars on the electric line awaiting to bring the picnickers from Delwood Park to Chicago could not move because of the cluttered roads. Wrecking crews were crushed with belongings from both ends of the line of Joliet and Chicago to clear away the wreckage. A number of automobile parties caught in the storm were stalled by the fallen poles and trees.

Wind North of City. There was also heavy wind and rain northwest of the city. Residents near Niles report a storm in that vicinity, but little damage and no known injuries.

Thousands at the city beaches were caught in the sudden showers of the afternoon, and the street cars and elevated trains were crowded with bedraggled women and children hastening to their homes.

Even at $30 a Royal suit represents a saving of $10 to $15 under local tailors' prices. But this month, price is only $25

This table is an audit of the cost of producing a Royal tailored-to-order suit at the market prices prevailing today.

It takes an average of 3 1/4 yds. of Cloth for a Royal Tailored suit (cost per yd., mill price, $3.80 net)	$ 9.90
Cost of linings, findings, etc. for suit. (cost mill price, $1.25 net)	1.25
Cost of cutting suit (highest standard of efficiency)	1.17
Cost of making coat (highest standard of efficiency, enormous production)	4.86
Cost of making vest (highest standard of efficiency)	1.13
Cost of making pants (highest standard of efficiency)	1.41
Total net cost (without overhead)	$22.32
Mfg overhead cost 10%	2.23
Total net cost per suit	$24.55

Every man is entitled to know, in these war times, just what he is getting for his money. Thoughtless purchasing today is not only a crime against your purse, but a crime against your pocket-book.

We cannot have national thrift unless every man spends wisely—and knows what his dollar buys.

For six months we have been selling a $35 to $45 type of custom tailored suit at $25. But that offer is no longer feasible, as the foregoing cost table will show.

There are two ways to meet the present war-cost issue—the open way and the soft-pedal way.

The soft-pedal manufacturer believes in maintaining a standard price regardless of increasing costs. He quietly reduces the quality to cover the cost-increase.

This maker does not deceive his public in the long run. Your American clothes buyer can be relied upon to see through subterfuge. He knows that things cost more; and he's ready to pay the increase to the merchant who is honest about it.

The fact of the matter is, that we were entitled to that $30 price on Royal Tailored clothes from the outset. We knew that our $25 price was far below a fair selling price. But we purposely sacrificed a fair business margin, to introduce Royal Service quickly to Chicago trade.

Now, the time has come when an increase is imperative. But rather than advance the price over night, we have given all Chicago a full month's notice. The time expires August first.

But from now until August first, you may still order that Royal Tailored-to-Your-Taste suit or overcoat at the amazing price of $25; a suit or overcoat guaranteed to fit and please you as patly and completely as though you paid a local tailor $35 to $50 for it.

Twenty-five dollars made-to-measure

The $25 price on Royal Tailored to measure suits or overcoats will remain during the month of July. On and after August 1st the price will be $30.

X-RAY PIERCES DEATH MYSTERY OF CHARLES XII

Body of Sweden's Hero King Exhumed to Learn Who Was Slayer.

studying wounds might achieve a solution of the ancient mystery.

In fact, the whole investigation hinged upon the words "dubious hand" in the noble passage of Dr. Jahnsson's "Vanity of Human Wishes."

Everybody probably knows the famous lines, but not so many know the application. The mystery of the "dubious hand" is thus touched upon by Johnson, who wrote the words thirty years after the king's death:

"His fate was destined to a barren strand;

A petty fortress and a dubious hand. He left the name at which the world grew pale To point a moral or adorn a tale."

Keep Investigations Secret.

What the investigations now concluded may prove and whether they will determine from which side the falconet ball, which crashed through the left temple and out of the right temple, was fired will remain for some time unknown. All surgeons, Roentgen ray operators, and other scientific men who participated in the investigation pledged to secrecy, but ultimately monographs giving the results of their work will be issued by the government.

Meanwhile I am permitted to write an account of what happened today, together with a description of the countenance of the monarch, who has lain nearly 100 years in his grave in Sweden's Westminister abbey, on the Isle of Staden, within gunshot of the royal palace begun the year he ascended the throne and occupying the site of the palace where he was born.

Riddarholm church is under extensive restoration and today Charles' body rested not in Carolinian chapel, where originally it was buried, but in the Gustavus Adolphus chapel, where Gustavus Adolphus is buried.

Face of Very Old Man.

Shortly before noon detachments of troops began to move into the church square. Soon it was crowded with soldiers and people, who occasionally parted to permit the royal carriages to approach.

Passing along the ruled passage leading through the church to the Gustavus chapel, the assemblage, which moved by twos, was confronted with the king's body as soon as they had mounted the steps of the chapel. In the subdued yellow light of the chapel—it has been a day of rain and cloud—my first impression was that I was looking upon a mummified face, but as my eyes adjusted themselves to the light that impression passed and I seemed to be looking down upon the countenance of a very old man, who, in the course of a long and wasting illness had fallen into deep, untroubled sleep.

Of the tall, powerful, broad shouldered man of 36 years, whose death at Fredriksten was instantaneous, there was not a suggestion. The hair, which was said to have grown gray before Charles XII. was 30, did not look gray today, but seemed dark and rather wispy. He

MYSTERY OF "DUBIOUS HAND"

Riddarholm Church, the Westminister Abbey of Sweden, in Stockholm, Where the Body of Charles XII, Boy Hero King, Was Exhumed by Scientists. By the Use of the X-Ray They Expect to Clear Up the 200 Year Old Mystery as to Whether the King Was Killed by a Norwegian Enemy Soldier or a Traitor in His Own Camp. The Inset Picture of King Charles XII. Is from an Old Engraving, and Was Taken from "Sweden and the Swedes" by W. W. Thomas Jr.

used to brush it upward all around, so that it looked like a crown, and he made no effort to conceal his premature baldness.

Forehead Like Parchment.

Today the hair stood up around the sides and back of the head, with the effect of a laurel wreath, which had withered. The lofty forehead was the color of an old parchment—a dull yellow and wrinkled.

Only the slightest line indicated where the eyebrows had been. Where upper and lower lids of the closed eyes met there were dark lines and the eyes were much sunken.

On each temple were oblongs of clean white linen, evidently new, and covering the wounds made by the entrance and exit of the ball. The patch on the right temple was largest, for it covered a wound into which the soldiers who carried the body of Charles XII. on the night he fell said a man could thrust three fingers. The tip of the large nose is gone. This is the only startling disfigurement which time has wrought.

The lips over which his men said a slight but invariable smile played are now thin and pursed like the lips of a weary old man who has suffered. No teeth are visible. The cheeks are sunken and wrinkled. The chin is smooth, and I thought I could discern trace of the deep dimple, so conspicuous in the authentic portraits of Charles XII. But perhaps the effect was produced by the tricky lights and the touches of discoloration in the face.

Strong Hands Shrunken.

These discolorations were grayish brown patches, and were not distinguishing, but emphasized the effect of a very old man's face. Of the almost womanishly delicate complexion, on which scandal mongers used to make sinister comment, there remains not the remotest suggestion. No other parts of the body could be studied, for a shroud or winding sheet which time had turned to a cream yellow was close up under the chin. The sheet did not cover the monarch's hands. They rested on the body, and were encased in the characteristic gauntlet gloves of delicate yellow.

The hands were pitifully shrunken, so that the gloves seemed almost empty. These loose gloves covering the hands of a being so strong and expert that he killed his first bear at the age of 11 years were the only pathetic feature of the picture before us. For the rest I can only repeat my image of a sick old man, sleeping.

Solemn Aid Touching.

There was nothing gruesome in the sight but much that was solemn and touching in the thought that here at the base of the colossal green marble monoliths of the great Gustavus lay the man who had renewed the glory of Sweden as a world power for nearly two decades, who fought one of the thirteen decisive battles of the world between Marston and Waterloo, who captured the fortified coronation city of Cracow, with a walking stick in his hand who took Lemberg in two hours, who defied and defeated Peter the Great at Narva against enormous odds, who for sixteen years was the terror of Russia, Denmark, Saxony, Poland, Norway, and Prussia, and whom his great successor Gustavus III. pronounced "superior to Alexander."

It was natural that in such a presence reverential silence was spontaneous. Nobody spoke much and everybody spoke in whispers and moved softly.

Amid Trappings of Soldiers.

The only distinct sounds reaching the chapel were the cries of commands and the heavy trappings of soldiers and sailors, when bodies of troops moved from one part of the square to the other.

At each side of the coffin stood two plumed soldiers of the royal guard and another kept watch at the head of the coffin. They seemed never to move. At the foot of the coffin rested a laurel wreath, twined with the Swedish colors of blue and yellow. It was sent by King Gustavus V. and bore the date of July 20 and the royal monogram.

Blue Cocked Hat Near By.

The coffin into which we looked was unglazed and was of simple construction, covered with black broadcloth and a little gold molding. On treaties to the right of the coffin, as we faced it, rested the coffin lid, and on it were the blue cocked hat and long gauntlet gloves of Charles XII.

The coffin was upholstered with pillows containing preserving medication, and on one of such pillows Charles' head rested. During the viewing of the body court chamberlains and other court people appeared extremely solicitous—indeed almost apprehensive—seeming to be intently on the qui vive that no indecorous incident should mar the occasion.

In the line of spectators was Prince Charles, Duke of Vastergotland, a brother of King Gustavus.

'U. S. WRONGS US,' SWEDEN'S VERDICT AS TO EMBARGO

Called Attack on Neutral Traffic with Kaiser Exaggerated.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT. (Special Cable to The Tribune.)

STOCKHOLM, July 22.—Herewith is a digest in the form of six Tarzan questions and six answers from authoritative sources concerning the best Swedish opinion on the Swedish food situation as affected by America's rigid export decisions.

First question—"Has a warring government a legal or moral right to make drastic export restrictions affecting the life and health of a friendly nation?"

First answer—"The United States has, during the war, most emphatically asserted its legal and moral right to trade with neutral and belligerent countries and has condemned the German measures against Belgium, hence it is evident that, according to the principles maintained by the United States, the life and well being of a peaceable nation cannot on any account be legitimately attacked by the belligerents."

Second question—"If no such right exists what can a friendly power do in the way of protest or self-protection?"

Second answer—"The unjustly treated peaceful nation certainly is entitled to protest and to pursue her rights in us policy and interests."

Third question—"Is there a greatly exaggerated idea of the Scandinavian trade with Germany?"

Third answer—"The common conception of Swedish exports to Germany are immoderately exaggerated. As regards especially cereals, Sweden is compelled to import about one-fourth of the requirements under normal conditions. Supposing the impossible—namely, that all the Swedish grain imported and some of that grown were exported—this would satisfy the requirements of the central empire only for a few weeks. From this it is clear how insignificant is the quantity we could export, particularly considering the prevailing and threatening failure of the crops. And how out of the question is the alternative that we should desire to export."

Will Influence Public Opinion.

Fourth question—"Can Sweden get safely through next winter without food from abroad?"

Fourth answer—"It has been stated in the third answer that Sweden is under normal conditions importing one-fourth

WAR JOLTS CUPID

Here's Where Efficiency Tyrant May Find His Hit a Tartar.

BERTON, N. J., July 22.—(Special.)—The efficiency expert has been having a good deal of his own way in this country lately, but he would do well to have a care. He may go too far, and when he interferes in the province of Mr. D. Cupid, as he has in Trenton, he may find himself a victim.

This is the order which he has issued here:

All long distance telephone calls from the state house in Trenton, unless officially accounted for, must cease, henceforth and forever.

He charges that clerks, officials, and their friends have been calling up sweethearts—and even wives, in some cases—at Atlantic City, Newark, and other such places blessed with the presence of the superior sex at this time, at such a rate that it costs the state thousands of dollars a year.

Therefore, he decrees, the practice must cease. The state controller has issued an order that after Aug. 1 only three men in each department will be connected on long distance telephone calls. Records will be kept of each toll call, so that the controller can check up the bills submitted.

Of his necessary cereal supply. It then is also clear that if we were thrown upon our own resources we could manage only with great difficulty and by severe rationing, but on the other hand Sweden will rather go through the greatest sufferings than to give up her independence. And hardships caused by impeded importation are certain to have a very strong influence on public opinion against those who bring on the sufferings."

Trade with Enemy.

Fifth question—"Is Sweden's commercial activity more or less dependent on Germany?"

Fifth answer—"From Germany Sweden obtains certain necessary commodities—in particular coal, coloring matters, and medicine. As Swedish industry is to a considerable extent dependent on German supplies of the two first named commodities, a cessation of the same would result in widespread unemployment, increasing the already existing difficulties."

Sixth question—"In solving her food problems will Sweden act in concert with other Scandinavian powers?"

Sixth answer—"Sweden certainly is desirous, as much as possible, to act in common with the other Scandinavian countries, and also with other neutral European states. In this respect it should be remembered that, at the Stockholm conference of Scandinavian ministers last May certain general principles were laid down for collaboration in economic matters during and after the war. Likewise it was unanimously agreed that the already initiated mutual cooperation and exchange of commodities between the three Scandinavian countries during the war might be carried on in the same manner as hitherto and further developed."

Trampled by Both Sides.

In these connections it is important to note that the newspaper Tidningen, which is the best informed on governmental policy, says:

"It is not for Germany's sake—least of all for her sake in view of her pirate war against our helpless fishing boats—that we are standing fast by our neutral maritime policy and our right to free exchange of goods with both sides. Each side in its own way is trampling on our rights and our freedom. It is only our Swedish interests, our rights and duties as a genuinely neutral country, which must be our guiding star."

If you are registered, simply find your "red ink" number in the left hand column. If the number opposite is "1," you are the first number drawn and you will be called at once for the first army of 600,000. If your serial number runs into the thousands you can only guess when you will be called, if at all. Exactly how many are to be called will not be known, however, until the adjutant general's office at Springfield finishes its computation of Chicago's quota. The present call may involve the first 1,500 numbers drawn in Washington, or it may involve more.

A few draft numbers appear in the table without their corresponding serial numbers. This is due to occasional errors in the telegraphic report of the drawing. Draft numbers above 8,593 are omitted because none higher than this have been issued in Cook county.

BOOKKEEPING MACHINE

SAYS THE PUBLIC CARRIES BURDEN OF FIRE LOSSES

Insurance Commissioner Hardison Points to Remedies.

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

Insurance commissioner Frank H. Hardison of Massachusetts presents some figures regarding the fire waste in this country that brings the subject home to the United States. He said that if half of the ravages by fire in this country could be stopped for ten years there would be a saving of $1,000,000,000, which is one-half of the amount of the Liberty loan which the federal government has raised for war purposes. Commissioner Hardison declares that it is not enough to keep the fire loss at its present level, but it should be forced much lower.

He calls attention to the fact that notwithstanding all the efforts that have been put forth by the insurance companies and fire protection organizations, yet year after year it is the same story. The annual loss runs from $200,000,000 to $350,000,000.

Annual Loss Distributed.
The insurance commissioner believes that the people as a whole are not adopting remedies that should be followed to cope with the fire waste. He calls attention to the fact that policyholders think that the insurance companies are the losers if the destroyed property is insured, and so therefore there is nothing really lost. As a matter of fact, when property is burned it is lost forever. The annual fire loss is simply distributed over the entire people, each contributing his share in the way of premiums.

Commissioner Hardison says that even though insurance companies have been carrying on a great campaign against the use of shingle roofs, because they constitute a real hazard, the attitude of the public is shown in the feeling that shingle roofs will be used anyhow, and therefore let the insurance companies pay the loss.

Wants Responsibility Fixed.
Commissioner Hardison believes that there are two remedies to be applied that will work along practical lines and bring results. One, he says, is compulsion by state authority as far as the public opinion will permit; the other is the education of the rising generation to an appreciation of the tremendous loss which this country suffers from preventable fires.

One feature of that compulsion in his opinion should be the fixing by law of the responsibility of a fire which is preventable and the holding of the careless and indifferent to make good what his fault has caused to be lost. Commissioner Hardison says there would then be a quickening of the mind and a change of the habit of thought. Matches as a potential conflagration, for example, and the lighted cigar and cigarette stubs would receive more attention before being cast aside.

He thinks that now is the proper time to drive home more forcefully than ever the necessity of decreasing waste in every line.

Rape 15 Per Cent Tax.
President Henry Evans of the Continental Insurance company and almost all the insurance interests call attention to the fact that the proposed federal revenue bill, placing a tax of 15 per cent on the annual net earnings of corporations remaining undistributed, will mean much to insurance corporations if this be carried out. The life insurance committee selected by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo to devise a plan for life and disability insurance for enlisted men will meet with him in the treasury department this morning.

CAMP MEETING CHILDREN SHAKE FISTS AT BOOZE

Rain Drives Great Crowd at Desplaines to Shelter.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Desplaines campground experienced yesterday a typical camping day. The forenoon was bright, crowds swarmed everywhere on the lawns and under the trees. At 2 o'clock a heavy rain drove all the campers to shelter. Dr. L. F. W. Lesemann, who presided, estimated the number on the grounds as more than 5,000. Every foot of space in the three tabernacles was filled, while rows of persons were looking in the open windows.

An offering of $1,200 was taken, every one marching by a chest, denominated a "Joah chest," and depositing therein a Joah envelope containing his free will gift. No gate fees or other collection was taken during the week. The children took the platform. Bringing down their little fists with a thud and then shaking them above their heads, they sang:

Down with booze! Down with booze!
We want groceries, we want shoes.
The Rev. Alfred Peaché whirled on the audience and every man and woman lustily took up the song.
"This is our jubilee day," said Dr. Lesemann, "because our attendance has been greater, our program better than

DAY DREAMS

Boy Ran Away from Home
When Mother Scolded Him.

Frederick Botker, it is hard for grownup folks to understand adventure and romance and dreams. But go home. Your father and mother and your brothers and sisters are all lonely without you. They want you to come home again, and they will try to understand.

Frederick, who is 18 years old, disappeared from his home, 231 Park avenue, Highland Park, July 12. His mother thinks an unkind remark made him run away.

"Fred has such an imagination," said Mrs. Botker yesterday. "Such fairy tales he makes up in his head and tells for truth. Perhaps he will write great books some day because of it; but sometimes it is hard to be patient."

She remembers saying to him: "We can't stand a boy around this house who tells such lies." He did not answer her and the next day he was gone. They have had no word or sign of him since. "If he'll just come home, we'll forget old scores," the mother said.

For years past, and because we have planned to keep the grounds open all summer for campers, picnics, and religious gatherings.

In the morning sermon the Rev. Charles Wesley Flint, president of Cornell college, Iowa, received applause as he denounced "the action of the brewers in holding up the food bill."

Belgian Mission Has Real Meet.
Little Rock, Ark., July 23.—Members of the Belgian mission had their first day of complete rest today since they left Washington on July 1 on a tour of the United States. Reaching Arkansas was like getting back home to Baron Munchausen, head of the mission, his wife being a daughter of former Gov. Powell Clayton, who at one time lived in this city.

AUTO KILLS MAN AS BURNHAM VICE HAS LAST FLING

Orgy Follows Order of the Sheriff and Hoyne to Close.

Mayor Patton, mayor of Burnham, Illinois, a Roman holiday yesterday. With the aid of his suburban levee empire, he was the center of a party which began with a dance at the Burnham hotel and ended with a party at the Burnham hotel.

Black Broker Killed.
The dead man is Robert Gentry, a black broker, of 435 South Union avenue. Gentry was instantly killed when the automobile turned over. His companion, Miss Kate Gorman, a cabaret singer in Patton's Burnham Inn, escaped with serious injuries.

Was Married.
The entertainer and Gentry entered the latter's car and rode north on the Burnham road. At 1000 North and Thirty-third street the car struck the curb and was wrecked.

I am that is puzzling the police of Burnham has been traced to the criminal who infest the locality of Burnham. In the south Chicago hospital, yesterday surgeons amputated the left leg of Earl Russell, son of wealthy parents of Lansing Mich. The young man told the police he came to Chicago in the middle of the week and paid a visit to the home of friends in Harvey, Ill. In the trip took a train for the loop. He said he had considerable money with him.

Father Alike Investigation.
Yesterday he was found near the Nickel Plate tracks and one hundred and thirty-third street. His foot was mangled and he was otherwise bruised. His father, George Bassett, came to aid him, and through his investigations with the police it is declared that the young man was taken up by crooks in the loop and led to Burnham where he was killed of some $200 and then thrown on the railroad tracks.

Other casualties growing out of the party in Burnham's wide open resort took place when the automobile of George Herbert, of 8333 South Halsted street turned over near Burnham. Herbert, his wife, and Miss Virginia Scott of 100 Maryland avenue were thrown out. Herbert and his wife were probably fatally injured. Two others in the machine at the time of the accident escaped unhurt.

In Fulton's place, where Joseph Horner was shot to death in a gang feud only a few months ago, the spirit of rivalry ran high indeed. The spirit of the "boy mayor" decided he must put his competition to rout for the last days of the golden harvest and offer such entertainment as would assure him of all the available patronage. So far as security could determine, he succeeded in an amazing measure.

A Warm Night.
Yesterday the Burnham inn has offered several entertainers. But Saturday night and yesterday these entertainers were considered insufficient. A bevy of white girls was imported and ordered to "go the limit." They accepted the instructions quite literally. One blonde personage deprived herself of practically all protection against temptation and the observers, appearing in an innumerable number of automobiles, were in a state of high excitement. Her screams evoked salvos of laughter from the crowd.

Plenty of Evidence.
On this side of Oak Park, residents of the suburb, where home loving people live. This is the line. There is a party at the Burnham hotel and at the Burnham hotel. The party at the Burnham hotel and at the Burnham hotel. The party at the Burnham hotel and at the Burnham hotel.

Twenty women drank out of small glasses, had liquor, while others drank beer. Some were on the border of intoxication.

PORTIAS Women Pass State Bar Exam- inations and Prepare to Hang Out Shingles.

Miss Isabel R. Spitznagel
Miss Jennie C. Myers
Miss Margaret C. Myers
Miss Margaret C. Myers

Woman were well represented in the list of applicants who passed the state bar examinations Saturday. Among the successful Portias was Miss Isabel Ruth Samuels, who is national president of the Kappa Beta Pi League sorority. Mrs. Benjamin F. Bart also qualified. She is a B. A., Wesleyan 1915. M. A., University of Chicago 1914, and J. D., University of Chicago 1907. She was married in 1916.

Others successful were Jennie C. Wyse, 3838 Van Buren street; Susan Dodge, Margaret C. Perry, Pearl Franklin, Edith M. Gabel, Blanche J. Groth, Nellie MacNamara, and Margaret A. Schaffner.
Through an error in a headline this Tribune yesterday made it appear that only one woman, Miss Franklin, had passed the examination, when in fact ten did.

Shoes, stockings, and skirts wet and dirty, to get to these places. Visiting perhaps twenty-five saloons or parks, where liquor was sold on Sunday in defiance of the law, they found women drinking in probably half of them.

The greatest assemblage of the day was found in the Forest Park amusement park cabaret. Here hundreds gathered to drink.
State's Attorney Hoyne has gone on record as saying that he is going to close these places. Some believe that yesterday was the last lidless Sunday. There are 135 little municipalities in Cook county, says Mr. Hoyne, and he declares that if the laws governing Sunday closing are not straightway and henceforth enforced by the village presidents and police officials of each of them he is going to prosecute the officials.

JOYRIDERS HELD AS TAXI DRIVER DIES OF INJURIES

Woman Killed and Many Hurt in Other Accidents.

Six joy riders, speeding in West Madison street near Albany avenue, crashed into a Yellow cab on Saturday night, fatally injuring Nathan Bows of 3031 Indiana avenue, the taxi chauffeur, who died yesterday in the Robert Burns hospital.

In the belief that the joy riders were fleeing from some other escapade the police are holding two who were captured while seeking the other four. They are locked up in the Warren avenue police station, but have not been formally booked, awaiting the outcome of the investigation. It was rumored that at least one of the men is a former convict and wanted on more recent charges.

Making High Speed.
The car carrying the joy riders was proceeding at a terrific pace, it is said, when a street car loomed up ahead. The automobile struck the street car, and bounding off, struck the Yellow cab, wrecking it. Bows was pulled out of the wreckage.

Automobiles gathered their grisly load of dead and injured yesterday when smash-ups were reported from many places in the city. Mrs. B. L. Worden of 1117 East Forty-second place was killed when she was struck by an automobile driven by Roy Halling of 2854 Wilcox avenue, at Thirty-sixth place and Michigan avenue. Halling was held.

Dies of Old Injury.
Robert Holt of 2738 Belmont street died of injuries he sustained two months ago when struck by an automobile. Hamming Johnson of 440 East Seventy-sixth street was dangerously hurt when run down at Seventy-second street and South Park avenue by William A. Murray of 717 Garfield boulevard.

Six persons, one of them a 1 year old baby, were hurt when the car in which they were riding turned over at Kedzie avenue and Cortes street. They were Frank Maxant, Kurt Maxant, William Maxant, William Maxant Sr., Mrs. Kramenick, and the baby, all of Brookfield, Ill.

Leo Ruch of 2429 North Artesian avenue was injured when he was knocked from his motorcycle at Milwaukee and Fullerton avenues by a yellow cab. Leo Ruch, 2429 North Artesian avenue, was knocked from his motorcycle by a Milwaukee avenue car at Fullerton avenue. His right arm was broken.

SUIT THREATENED ON "SPITE FENCE" IN LA GRANGE

Residents of La Grange are watching with interest the fight over a "spite fence" which threatens to result in a suit for damages.

Mrs. F. W. Peterson, 137 Calendar avenue, a few weeks ago built a fence said to be twelve feet high on her lot at 139 Calendar avenue, adjoining an apartment formerly occupied by L. E. A. Ling, instructor in mathematics in the La Grange High school. The fence shuts off the light and view from the Ling apartment.

Mrs. Irving Bielby, owner of the Ling apartment, petitioned the village board at its last meeting to order the removal of the fence. The board said it was powerless to act because the fence was on Mrs. Peterson's property. Mrs. Bielby said last night she would sue Mrs. Peterson for damages unless the fence were torn down. Her lawyer is Frederick Goff, who is also village attorney.

Mrs. Peterson built the fence, it is charged to "get even" with Mr. Ling because of his refusal to lease a residence from her. Mr. Peterson denied yesterday that the fence was a "spite fence." He said it was only six feet high.

CLUB IN A BODY FOLLOW DRAFTED MEMBERINTOWAR

Because one of their number, Harry Silvers, was drawn for service by the draft, the members of the Bagpipers' club, feeling it their duty to "stick close by each," yesterday joined in a body the Hospital unit No. 1, U. S. G. Capt. Lipschultz commanding.

The recruits are Herman Abramson, Oliver I. Jacobson, Harry Silvers, Abe Bernberg, Ben Isaacson, Robert Strauss, Irving Sanders, Ben Leven, Philip Davis, David Sherman, and S. J. Rosenfeld. They were sworn in by Lieut. Col. Jacob Frank, surgeon general.

FIVE MURDERS IN SINGLE DAY SWAMP POLICE

Several Arrests Made,
but Direct Evidence Is Lacking.

Five murders and another violent death, believed suicide, in all—enough to gross the attention of the police yesterday. All of them are puzzling in their aspects, and although several arrests have been made, the police said themselves in possession of only slight direct evidence.

Arthur Fuller, clerk of the Illinois hotel, 1007 South State street, was found shot through the heart late at night on the second floor of the hotel. The body was found by Leonard Kline, a guest of the hotel, who notified the police. A search was begun for G. Lara and M. J. McGuire, both Mexicans, said to have knowledge of the slaying.

Found Shot to Death.
Walter Cousins of 327 North Avenue, formerly a switchman and more recently the possessor of a police record for car robberies, was found shot to death near 4002 West Twelfth street. The body was found by Mrs. M. Wilson, proprietor of a restaurant, who at first believed Cousins to be asleep, sitting against a telephone post. The Austin police identified the body and discovered he had been last seen with a companion between whom and Cousins there had been trouble.

A year ago Mrs. Tony Plackovich obtained a divorce from her husband. Plackovich accused Charles Kawalunas of 740 West One Hundred and Eighty-ninth street as the cause of his domestic woes. Yesterday Kawalunas was found shot to death near his home. Plackovich was arrested a short distance away from some small boys who saw the shooting and aroused the police. Plackovich pleaded self-defense.

Found Is Suggested.
After playing for a Throop street dance, Joseph Sinek and his nephew, George Sinek, returned to their home at 1105 West Eighteenth street, from which house the older man went to a companion between whom and Cousins there had been trouble.

Yesterday Kawalunas was found shot to death near his home. Plackovich was arrested a short distance away from some small boys who saw the shooting and aroused the police. Plackovich pleaded self-defense.

Suicide Clew.
An investigation was made of the chimney, at the bottom of which the body was found, and a box was discovered at its base. The box contained a letter which led the police to believe Gullintini climbed to the top and dropped through, auto-killing himself.

The police are still seeking Frank Christa, a bartender in a saloon at 2944 West Grand avenue, where Andrew Hax, a son of 131 North Avenue avenue was slain Saturday night as the result of an argument over the army draft. Hansen had espoused the cause of the administration.

ROOMMATES ROW OVER DRAFT; ONE HAS THROAT CUT

Gus Kolm, 34 years old, 1122 Florence avenue, was slain like the government's method of conducting the draft lottery. He said so to Emil Dredwick, his roommate.

"The numbers should have been drawn by precinct," he declared.
"What do you know about it?" replied Dredwick. "The government knows its business. Let the men with brains run these things."

A few minutes later a police ambulance took Dredwick to the Evanston hospital. His throat had been cut. Kolm said he is a Pole and a teamster. Dredwick was not seriously injured.

One day I found Laura standing by an open window. She looked frightened. I questioned her, but she evaded. A few weeks later she told me that Petrie had been outside the window and had declared he would kill her and me if she refused to elope with him.

Some of the residents of Downers Grove and Elmhurst who have known of the affair gave it as their opinion that if Miss Hansen eloped with Petrie she went of her own free will. They declared the girl seemed as greatly infatuated with her suitor as Petrie was with her.

Miss Hansen went on a visit to her friend Margaret McCarthy on Friday. She said she had a headache and started back ostensibly for her home. That was the last seen of her.

About the same time Petrie disappeared. "One day I found Laura standing by an open window. She looked frightened. I questioned her, but she evaded. A few weeks later she told me that Petrie had been outside the window and had declared he would kill her and me if she refused to elope with him."

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

MISSING GIRL'S MOTHER REVEALS SUITOR'S THREAT

The search for Laura Hansen, the 15 year old school girl of Elmhurst, and H. W. Petrie, the 20 year old musician of Downers Grove, who disappeared simultaneously Friday, developed no clues yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen declared their conviction that their daughter had been kidnapped at the point of a revolver. They believe her abductor has spirited her to some town in Michigan.

"I do not hear from my daughter by tomorrow," Mr. Hansen said, "I will place the case in the hands of the federal authorities in Chicago. If I had the man who stole my daughter I will kill him."

"I am convinced," Mrs. Hansen said, "that Laura was forced to accompany her abductor. Laura was only 14 when she began to take music lessons from Petrie. We lived in Downers Grove then. Mrs. Petrie came to me and told me her husband was infatuated with the girl. I asked Laura about it and she said Petrie was forcing his attentions on her. We moved to Elmhurst, where I thought she would be safe from her gray haired admirer."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A group of politicians in the House of Representatives yesterday indicated an allegory of the draft. One man, who was named Elliott Dexter, the name of Blanche O'Neil appeared in the text as one of a list of names who were named when he acted when on the stage.

FORTY ARRESTED IN RAIDS UPON FOUR HOTELS

Raids on four south side hotels late Saturday night and early yesterday under the direction of Lieut. John W. Loftus netted forty women and men.

Those raided were the Globe hotel, 2401 South State street; Star hotel, 2001 South State street; Apollon hotel, 124 East Thirty-first street, and the Ohio hotel, 2015 South State street. The alleged keepers and inmates will be arraigned this morning in the Morris court.

THIS BABY BESTS OLD WOMAN WHO LIVED IN A SHOE

"My name is Mary and I'm two years old. The young lady was a pink and white vision with dimples and curls. She warmed visibly to the big policeman who questioned her in Central station. She admired their brass buttons particularly. She had been led into the station by Miss Alice Fuller, 1120 East Forty-seventh street.

"When I took a street car at Kedzie avenue and Madison street," said Miss Fuller, "the little girl climbed on after me. I tried to learn her name and home address, but she didn't seem to know. Mary enjoyed the sights of the station for a hour and a half. She wanted at last."

"I think I'll go home now," she said as a Cupid's bow mouth opened in something suspiciously like a yawn. "The place where my mamma lives you'll find in my shoe."

"In your shoe?" said Capt. Morgan Collins.
"Yes," said the little maid unconcerned and matter-of-factly.
"I'll take a chance," said the captain. He took Miss Mary on his lap and took off her right shoe. There on the inside he found this legend pasted on a sheet of paper: "Dr. Charles M. Fugh, 323 Washington boulevard."

"That's my daddy," said Mary.
"You see," said Dr. Fugh, after the child had been taken home, "Mary has the wanders. I posted my address in her shoe to guard against just such an escapade as this."

Detectives Right There When Holdup Men Work

Two holdup men, Herman Pedlow, 230 Trumbull avenue, and F. Berg of 805 Wells street, made an error yesterday when they attempted to hold up Carl Forester of 1904 Ashland avenue. Evanston. He called for help and three detectives caught them.

CRACK 2 SAFES; ONE CLASSY JOB, OTHER A FLUKE

Butter Firm Out $4,000, but "Soup" Is Cold at Brewery Call.

Two hands of safe robbers operated in the early hours of Sunday morning. In one job at the offices of the Fox River Butter company, 1531 South State street, $4,000 was obtained, and in the other, at the Gambrian Brewery, 2040 West Fullerton street, the robbers failed to blow the strong box that contained $25,000.

The "pete man" who blew the safe in the butter company's headquarters knew his business and took pride in it. He had three others with him who successfully noted the work of the "master hand." Two employees of the butter company, who were bound with ropes and tied to chairs, looked on while the robbers hovered around the safe. It seemed to the employees that the "master hand" was giving a lesson how to open a safe with business and dispatch.

"Rough Work."
The job at the brewery was in the police parlance, "rough work." Here the "pete man" did not know his business, or something was wrong with the "soup."

There were four men in this job. One of them who prided himself on "blowing fifty safes and never failing to get the coin," almost cried because his pride was humiliated. His companions called him a "pete" and a "fluke." They also told him he couldn't open a can of tomatoes. The conversations that took place during both robberies were recounted by the witnesses.

Walked Up Nine Flights.
It was 2 o'clock when four masked men entered the building in which the butter company has its offices on the fourth floor. The watchman of the building, C. L. Devoe, was encountered on the first floor. He was compelled to walk up the nine flights of stairs with two of the robbers in front and two behind him. When the door of the fourth floor was opened, the robbers were leveled at Martin Rice, an employee of the butter company, he cried out and fell on a chair. One of the robbers struck him on the head with a gun.

The other three robbers entered from behind and the two watchmen were bound and tied.

Some kind of an iron instrument was used in wrenching off the combination of the safe. "Then the work of blowing the strongbox was begun. It situated the first explosion.

"A Small Job."
The "master hand" was a bit nettled. He ordered another hole drilled. While this was being done he lit a cigarette. "Taking a small risk from his pocket containing 'soup' he poured some of the contents into a 'soup' which he said was another explosion. Boils and rivets were ripped asunder. The strong box yielded its treasure.

"For me"—it was the "master hand" who opened a "soup" which he said was enough soup in the first charge. You've got to be careful to not get too much of it, for fear you'll blow the money all to pieces."

Get That's a swell job," said one of the pupils. "It's the purest job I ever see."

"Every man to his trade," said the "master hand," flicking the ashes of his cigarette. "Give me that bag till I put the dough in it. We'll split it when we get home. I never hang around a place holding a post-mortem. Come on. It's a good night's work."

Three Explosions Futile.
The trio who made a botch of it at the brewery arrived there at 1:15 o'clock and remained three hours. They bound John Casey, the watchman, with a rope and then tied him to a chair in the office, where the safe was.

After two explosions failed to open the strong box the robbers took Casey to another room and tied him to a post. He heard the "pete man" say, "I'll load her up and blow the roof off the next time."

Casey says the third explosion shook the building. Still the strong box remained intact. Casey overheard the robbers lamenting their bad luck.

"You say you're a Pete man," one of the trio was heard to say. "The only kind of a safe you ever opened was one with a crow bar. You don't know the rudiments of blowing a box. I look it for you, and all you've got to do is to know how to handle the soup. Where did you ever learn to be a 'pete man'?"

More Tough Luck.
There was another explosion about 4 o'clock and the robbers left in disgust. They attempted to steal an automobile belonging to David H. Carden, president of the brewery, which was in the yard, but they couldn't start the engine.

MOTOR TRUCK PICNIC ENDS IN GENERAL FIGHT

Edward's grove, near Park Ridge, was the scene of a sanguinary battle early last evening, the weapons being bottles, beer cans and pocket knives. In the fight, 115 members and guests of the Virginia Athletic club, participated. The club traveled to the grove in motor trucks and spent the afternoon in eating, drinking, and sports. A witness said everything went along smoothly until 7 o'clock, when a general fight began. Several men were cut on the head with bottles, while one, said to be a Chicago pugilist named Kelly, was stabbed in the right arm. His wound was dressed by a Dr. Clement at Park Ridge. The fight is said to have resulted from an argument between a club member and a guest. No arrests were made.

That German pipe of peace is reported to be "mere sham."

TEX RUSSELL BACK IN LIME LINE

Comiskey's Southpaw with a Lane Arm (?) Lulls Boston Red Sox to Four Hits and Bucket of Whitewash.

WOODS AND WATERS OF LAKE
OUR FOREST PRESERVE.
In Chicago we hear a lot about what our communities are doing in what sanctuaries for birds. For example, in Omaha they have recently dedicated 1,000 acres for a bird sanctuary. Omaha is to be congratulated. In other towns and cities one hears much of Chicago's forest preserve, but few Chicagoans know much about it and what it means to the town he lives in.

At present our preserve consists of about 2,600 acres of woodland, much of it along water courses of the Chicago and Desplaines rivers and Salt Creek. Work done district extends from the county line on the north to Crawford and Milwaukee avenues. Another is along both sides of the Desplaines from the county line on the north to Madison street. The third is along both sides of Salt Creek from the western limits of the county to where it joins the Desplaines at Riverside.

Much of this land is already in use for park purposes, for church picnic grounds, for school playgrounds, for forest preserve is the national park idea brought nearer home.

Of course the preserve will be a sanctuary for birds and other wild life, as well as a playground for the people. No shooting of any kind will be permitted, and no doubt provisions will be made for feeding the birds during bad weather in the winter.

Wild flowers, shrubs, and trees will also be protected from vandals and thoughtless people, and Chicago and Cook county are thereby assured of having some wild and wooded country near home, regardless of how rapidly the city grows or how valuable suburban real estate becomes.

It is planned to increase the preserve until it contains some 30,000 acres.

LOSERS TO WIN IN P. G. C. EVENT
Having set the example for raising Red Cross money by assisting golfers a cent a stroke in tournament play, the Press Golf club of Chicago will establish a new departure by awarding prizes to losers of matches at its July tournament to be held at Indian Hill Golf club on July 27.

When Francis Outmet carried off the Western Amateur championship at Midlothian, Tom McNamara, former western open champion and discoverer of Outmet, offered the newspaper golfers a box of his mysterious radium balls for their next scramble. Eight low net scorers will qualify for match play, and the losers in all matches except the finals will receive one ball. The winner will receive four balls and the runner up two. Bob McDonald, former eastern professional, will sponsor the scribbles.

LITTLE FELLERS BATTLE TONIGHT IN RACINE RING

Bantam Clash Between Joe Burman and Thompson Features Card.

BY RAY PEARSON.
There is going to be a real scrap at Racine tonight when Joe Burman, local bantamweight upstart, engages George Thompson of California in the main event of a three bout card. "Old Boy" John Wagner certainly has no fear of the torrid weather, for despite the atmospheric conditions the promoter of Lakeside arena figures on one of the biggest house he ever has had. It is the interest, principally by Chicagoans, in the windup that Wagner figures will draw the fans.

To the fans in this part of the country both Burman and Thompson are practically unknown. Burman's home is here, and he did quite a little boxing, but that was before he got to be anything in the pugilistic swim. It was necessary for him to be a person from the west side of Chicago to become mixed up in the New York game before his talent was recognized. But he showed the stuff—they called it championship stuff—down east, and he soon became listed with the headlines.

Thompson is a Coast Product. Thompson has never fought in this vicinity. He has done most of his mitt wielding in the far west, and his record shows performances of merit. He looked so good, Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, made him his protégé. But Thompson hasn't Ritchie to assist him now, for Willie is among California's enlisted men.

The fact that stands out most prominently is the speed that will be displayed when they get down to the business of boxing. Thompson is a knockout. Burman is credited with having the better wallop, but Thompson doesn't like that kind of talk and argues he will show Joe that he, too, can punch. It is one bout in which both will have to go fast to escape defeat, and they both have the speed.

Many Words, Few Bets.
There has been considerable talk about betting around Chicago for several days, but little coin has gone into the hands of stakeholders, and if there is any real wagering the money is likely to be placed today.

The semi-windup between Sailor Freedman and Maurice Flynn is more of a betting affair than the windup, for both boys are local rivals and have many followers. Freedman, like Burman, is a Ghetto boy, while Flynn is well supported in the Eighteenth ward. The other bout brings together Al Evans and Walter Jacobson.

PATRIOTIC MEET FOR PRO GOLFERS EAST BEATS WEST IN NET MATCHES

Plainsfield, N. J., July 22.—Tennis players of the east had no difficulty in outplaying the team from California on the clay courts of the Plainsfield Country club. H. A. Throckmorton in the singles defeated W. M. Johnston, San Francisco, former national champion, 6-3, 6-4. Johnston is suffering from a blistered hand.
Throckmorton and F. B. Alexander defeated Johnston and Karl H. Behr, 6-4, 6-2.
Miss Molla Buerstedt, national champion, beat Miss Mary Browne, California, 6-4, 6-4. The girl from the Pacific coast did not appear to have recovered from the fatigue of her long journey.

HIGGINS WINNER; PAY AND GORDON CAUGHT NAPPING

Wonderful Sprint Carries Irish-American A. C. Miler to Victory.

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—Joe Higgins, 600 yard indoor champion and the last of the Irish-American A. C. clan, fulfilled a promise this afternoon when he defeated Willie Gordon of the New York A. C. and John Ray of the Illinois A. C. of Chicago in a clicking race in the Connolly mile at Celtic park. His time was 4:27.5, slow for the track.
Higgins owed his victory to a wonderful sprint 100 yards from the tape when he jumped Ray and Gordon and in twinkling had a lead of ten yards over the two mile record holder and the Metropolitan one mile champion.
Gordon was quick to see the danger and sprinted at his best to make up the lost ground. In the last fifty yards he gained rapidly on Higgins, but the old Holy Cross star broke the worsted by four yards, while Ray, completely done up, finished third, twelve yards behind Gordon.
Although Gordon made several attempts to break into the lead, it was not until the last turn that he drew up on even terms with the little Chicago runner. Apparently he reckoned without Higgins for Joe, with sense alert, jumped through and was off for the tape at a whirlwind pace before Ray and Gordon knew what was up.

Red Crown Gasoline Gives 51.1 Miles on a Single Gallon

On Friday, July 13th, a Franklin Touring Car, carrying four passengers, circled the Chicago Boulevards for 51.1 miles on a measured gallon of Red Crown Gasoline.

The test was made under the observation of Daniel Roesch, Associate Professor of Gas Engineering at the Armour Institute of Technology.

Professor Roesch purchased the gasoline from a local garage to make sure that it was of the usual commercial variety, and he personally poured the gasoline into an inverted glass container fastened to the running board and connected with the carburetor.

Red Crown Gasoline

Everywhere and Everywhere the Same

This test established a world's record for mileage and substantiates the claims of the Standard Oil Company.

Red Crown Gasoline also gives greatest speed. Ralph Mulford, driving a Hudson car, made 104 miles an hour with Red Crown.

Red Crown never varies. Its uniformity is guaranteed, no matter where you get it and you can get it everywhere.

More than 500 filling stations and garages in Chicago and suburbs sell Red Crown.

Miss Genevieve Cartwright

The engagement is announced of Miss Genevieve Cartwright, youngest daughter of Judge and Mrs. James H. Cartwright of Oregon, Ill., to Robert Salmon of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Salmon is a native of Argentina, South America, but for the last few years has resided in the United States. The wedding will take place in the fall.

NEWS OF THE STAGE

PLAY called "De Luxe Annie" will, on August 26, be used for the reopening of the Princess Theatre. Miss Willette Kershaw, Vincent Ferraro, and Albert Bruning are well-known performers named for the cast. The author is Edward Clark, at one time a minor cut-up in the two-day theater; he is concerned in the authorship of "You're in Love" and is the writer of a piece thoughtfully called "Prostitution," announced for staging early in the season.

Miss Estelle Worthright, a soprano who took part last year in the opera in Ravinia Park, returned last night to that resort, and sang the name-part in "Aida," three scenes of which were given. Miss Ingram was the Amnera; Mr. Kingston, Rhamadene; Mr. Pico, Amnaro; they will sing again with Miss Worthright in Wednesday night's revival of "Il Trovatore." The march and the waltz from "Tannhauser" and the prelude and Liebestod from "Tristan and Isolde" will be the Wagner items in tonight's concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, with Madame Berina, Mr. Pico, and Harry Hoffman, as soloists. "The Tales of Hoffman," with the Misses Macbeth, White, and Pavlovsk, will be sung again tomorrow night.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter is to "do over" the interior of the Auditorium Theatre. The task is one to which she takes definite notice; it has for some years, as a prospect, engrossed her. It is reasonably certain that the opera-house will stand for at least five years, the period for which Charles C. Deane last winter called last season, intimating that they will make an effort to keep the house going; the Messrs. Shubert's lease expired some months back, and was not renewed.

Frederick Sauter has made way in "Dew Drop Inn" for Roydon Keith. The piece will be kept on in the Illinois until the coming August 12, of Thomas A. Wise and William Courtenay in "Pala First!"

"The Brain-Promoter" is the name of a play by a new-come writer, Edward Laake. "Here Comes the Bride" is another of the season's new things; Roy for which Charles C. Deane last winter called last season, intimating that they will make an effort to keep the house going; the Messrs. Shubert's lease expired some months back, and was not renewed.

The press-agent of "Turn to the Right" is on his job; he asks print for the statement that the managers of that play have invited all draft-resisters bearing the first number out of the bowl in Friday's drawing, 286, to attend the 25th performance, the night of the 31st instant, in the Grand Opera House. Nothing is said by the press-agent about those holders of the number who plan to ask exemption.

Prize Offered for Best Type of Comfort Kit

THE woman who invents the best kind of comfort kit to send to a soldier will receive a prize of $500 from the allied relief department of the National Council. This announcement was made yesterday. The kit may be a suitable size to roll in a bundle and hang by the soldier's bed, and it must contain towel, handkerchief, tooth brush, tooth paste, soap, safety razor shaving stick, broom brush, pencil and pad, envelope, comb, shoe lace, safety pins, and housewife. The dimensions are to be about twenty-four by eighteen inches.

Mrs. Lyander Hill and Mrs. Elgot, daughters of the late G. F. A. Healy, who for many years was a resident of Paris, have started a class in French lessons, which is proving to be one of the most popular things done yet by the women's committee. The classes are for conversational French and are intended for Americans who expect to go to France to perform some sort of war service. There are already registered a number of nurses, three doctors of base hospital units, several motor truck drivers, stenographers and members of the R. O. T. C. The classes are free, no books are needed, simply registration at the French Shop, 60 East Washington street, to procure a ticket. The hours are: Saturdays and Sundays at 2:30 p. m. and Wednesdays at 4 p. m. A new style of dress for French children in the devastated district was invented and brought to the French Shop last week by Mrs. B. J. Clark, 1908 Washington boulevard. It was made from a piece of a man's shirt, the kind that is only slightly worn, and is unavailable for the original wearer, contains plenty of good material for a little girl's dress.

Little Miss Florence Emmett Smith, a five-year-old girl, has offered to "do her bit" for the Red Cross by dancing at the Red Cross La Crosse day. Her offer comes through her father, Col. Emmett Smith, a former soldier in the Philippines. Among the Chicago women who have recently added their names to the list of benefactors are Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Watson Blair, Mrs. John Borden, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mrs. Frederick W. Upham, and Mrs. Edward F. Carry.

The executive committee of the American Red Cross has appointed the following nationally known persons to the honorary membership on the woman's bureau of the organization: Mrs. William K. Draper of New York, chairman; Miss Mary Goodwillie of Baltimore, vice chairman; Miss Mabel Buchanan of Washington, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy of Chicago, Mrs. Frank Y. Hammar of St. Louis, Mrs. E. H. Harrison of New York, Mrs. George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, Mrs. Leonard Wood of Charleston, Miss Lavinia H. Newell of Boston, Mrs. William H. Crocker of San Francisco, Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright of Atlanta.

The executive committee's announcement of these appointments, contains this comment: "The purpose of this woman's bureau is to develop to the utmost extent all types of work which may be undertaken for the success of the United States and our allies by laywomen."

On account of the urgent demand in Europe for surgical dressings, I request you to send at the earliest possible moment all available stock of dressings comprised in class A, described on pages 4 and 5 of A. R. C. 164, and pages 3 and 4 of A. R. C. 165, to the nearest branch warehouse of the American Red Cross supply service. Since the demand is so urgent I ask you to give this your immediate personal attention."

Plans for the woman's section of the recruiting parade on Thursday are progressing. Besides the organizations already announced as taking part (Canadian women under John C. Carr, Daughters of the British Empire, under Mrs. George Cooke-Adams, the White Star auxiliary of the Second regiment, Daughters of the G. A. R., there have been several new recruits. Under the direction of Mrs. Alfred T. Martin, president of the Daughters of the Flag, the younger generation, the young girls and children of Illinois, will call upon the men to enlist. Mrs. Martin will have a float of young girls and children representing the American flag. The ladies of the G. A. R., of which Mrs. Ida Selbert is chairman, will have a squad of decorated automobiles. The parade is in honor of the Canadian and British recruiting officers visiting here. Two bands of a Highland regiment from Toronto, which is to be here next to help in the British recruiting, will play in front of the French shop at 60 East Washington, in Highland costume.

CASH CORN CALL BOOSTS PRICES; FUTURES HIGHER

Shorts Heavy Buyers in All Pits; Wheat Up on Northwest Crop News.

The persistent demand for the moderate offerings of corn on the part of dealers and industrial concerns generally, with a total disregard of high prices on their part, caused active buying of corn futures the last week, with a big recovery from the low points which were reached following the placing of maximum prices on deferred futures of corn at $1.25.

A stampede of cash shorts, which forced prices to a temporarily higher, also was a factor and buyers had little opposition at times, shorts covering freely, while the sellers were scarce, so that the only heavy pressure came at times from realizing sales from bulls who had big profits.

The cash corn situation is absolutely unique. With the embargo limiting export sales to neutral countries, and shipments held up at ports on the western seaboard, there is no let up in the domestic demand for corn, while offerings have not increased as the result of the unprecedented advance in prices.

Reserve Stocks Are Light.

Farmers and stock dealers appreciate the fact that reserve stocks are light, with a tremendous demand in existence, and are not disposed to sell remaining stocks of old corn until the new crop is assured.

No. 2 yellow corn sold up to $1.15 and No. 2 white at $1.20, every day the last week registering higher prices for cash corn. Even with the maximum prices fixed on the deferred months there have been good sales in the northwest, and in the west, with indications for the country indicate moderate supplies of old corn back, and visible supply points have light stocks. Receipts are fair in the west, but the offerings are taken as fast as they come on sale, with no accumulation of stocks.

Crop Outlook Favorable.

Weather conditions have been favorable in the main for the crop. There have been good rains in the northwest and also in the west, with indications for fine growing conditions in the central states. In the south the prospect is said to be good for a big crop. Foreign situation is unchanged. The embargo regulations will possibly prevent unlimited purchases for the neutral countries, where there is any chance of the corn taking the place of supplies shipped into Germany, but the demand from the allies alone will be heavy, as this country has about the only available surplus. It is expected the August report will show a bigger yield in prospect than the July figures indicated. However, it will be a long time before the crop is available, and if cash prices are any criterion the demand for old corn will continue brisk, unless the crop prospects are good enough to stimulate further selling by the country.

Cash Corns Are Light.

On the feature has been the tightening of the cash markets, with active buying by shorts and local bulls in the futures. The strength in corn started short covering. Bulls were more willing to become active on the buying side as the result of the disappearance of the big stocks which proved a bull bugaboo throughout the crop year. Cash corns are selling at big premiums over the futures, and this has reversed the situation to a great extent and caused the bearish features reflected by the prospects for a tremendous crop of new oats to be discounted.

There are no oats available for delivery on July contracts unless the unexpected happens and new oats are shipped in. As a result shorts in July have covered with prices advancing sharply. Harvesting is progressing rapidly, and in a few weeks the offerings should be more liberal, but with the high prices for corn and scarcity of grain and unusually big demand is expected for the first run of oats.

Wheat Scores Big Upturn.

Wheat has scored a considerable advance as a result of short covering. The price range would indicate considerable activity, but the volume of business has been extremely small, and there have been big upturns on the covering of small amounts. The wheat market is more liberal, but with the high prices for corn and scarcity of grain and unusually big demand is expected for the first run of oats.

Lard holders liquidated freely the last week, and prices had a sharp decline. On the decline there was heavy buying of products and covering by shorts, which caused a moderate rally, the strength in coarse grains and higher prices at the yards giving the bulls more reason for buying. The cash trade is moderate, and export trade is temporarily held in check by the embargo regulations which are limiting exports to neutral countries.
